Thought Vessel May Have Heeled Over Under Heavy Swell, Shipping Water

By RALPH HUMBLE
International News Service Special Correspondent

ERIE, Pa., July 29. — Another tragedy of the Great Lakes and the men who sail them was revealed today when the lumbering freighter, "George J. Whelan," poked her nose into port bearing six survivors of the crew of the freight steamer, "George J. Whelan," which foundered near Van Buren, N. Y., early this morning with fifteen members of her crew aboard.

Those rescued and taken to port by the "Amasstone" are believed to be the only members of the Whelan's crew who escaped death.

No Hope For Others. Small hope was held out that any of the 15 missing would be picked up. A score of lake steamers, however, were rushed to the spot where the Whelan rolled over and sank in a mysterious lake disaster.

Cause of the sinking remained a mystery. No explosion was reported and no seams were reported to have opened in the vessel. It was thought probable that the Whelan, cruising with open hatches, heeled over under a heavy swell and shipped tons of water.

The six survivors brought here reported the Whelan rolled over and sank without warning.

All were dazed by their experience, some were almost incoherent in their

Uniontown Man Drowning Victim

(International News Service)
UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 29.—Despite heroic efforts by William Anderson of Uniontown to save him from drowning, Joseph Thorpe, 45, is dead today.

Thorpe was hit by a plank and knocked into the river while being hoisted by crane at the Clyde mine near Brownsville. Anderson dived four times into the water, which was filled with floating logs, and finally dragged the body of the victim to shore.

Anderson, exhausted by his struggles to save the drowning man, had to be helped to shore by spectators.

Americans Menaced As Ravaging Horde Sweeps Through Yangtze Valley

GUNBOATS SHELTER ALL FOREIGNERS

(International News Service)

INS-64-PEIPING, July 29.—A ravaging force of 10,000 communists swept up the Yangtze Valley today and overran Changsha, Hunan Province capital, burning the government buildings and threatening to destroy all foreign property.

All Americans, with the exception of three missionaries, sought safety aboard the American gunboat Palos, taking care of their residents. The trio of missionaries refused to seek safety on the gunboat, preferring to cast their lot with the half million Chinese trapped inside the walls of the ancient city.

With the invaders rapidly gaining in strength and the Nanking government forces overpowered in most places by Reds while attempting to cope with rebels in other sections the various foreign governments have formally warned their residents in the endangered zones to depart at once.

Twenty Americans spending the summer at Kuling are endangered by approach of the raiding communists who are pressing ahead to Kiukiang. The raiders already are masters of the capitals of Hunan and Kiangsi.

The American legation has formally warned 419 Americans to leave the menaced areas of Hunan, Honan, Hupoh and Kiangsi.

Forest Fire Is Under Control

Kinzua Bridge One Of Biggest Steel Bridges In The World Is Saved From Fire

HUNDREDS WORK TO QUENCH FLAMES

(International News Service)

KANE, Pa., July 29.—Forest fire, which has been endangering the Kinzua viaduct for the last two days, early today was reported under control after having come within less than a half mile of the famous structure.

Most of the crew of 100 weary firefighters who have been battling against the onrush of the flames since Sunday morning were ordered off the job today, although a small band continued to patrol the smoldering underbrush.

Many Acres Destroyed. Between 75 and 100 acres of forest were destroyed in the Kinzua fire and more than 100 acres were destroyed in another fire on Mt. Alton nearby.

The Kinzua fire started Sunday morning from sparks from a passing engine and spread rapidly through the tinderlike trees, dried from the long drought.

Observers are being placed in the fire towers in this section, an unusual measure for this time of year, to prevent further fires.

Bridge Is Saved

The Kinzua bridge spans the Kinzua valley for the Erie railroad and is one of the largest steel bridges in the world. It is 2,250 feet long and 301 feet high and constructed entirely of steel. Fire wardens directing the firefighters feared if the flames swept under the structure the girders would buckle and the famous span would collapse.

President Hoover Sends Letter Aiding Representative Reece Of Tennessee

POLITICIANS ARE STARTING TO BUZZ

Hitherto Hoover Has Kept Away From Congressional And Senatorial Fights

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 29.—President Hoover has abandoned, in part at least, his hitherto announced policy of aloof neutrality in all Republican primary battles.

The President's letter to Rep. B. Carroll Reece, who is having a hard fight for re-nomination in the first district of Tennessee, endorsing Reece's record, marks the first definite movement on Mr. Hoover's part to aid his friends and cripple the opposition to them.

Reece is opposed by Sam W. Price, who favors the Norris Bill for government operation of Muscle Shoals, and who has been accusing Reece of scuttling the interests of Tennessee in opposing it.

Politicians Buzzing

Just how far Mr. Hoover may go in his new policy of taking sides in a Republican primary remains to be seen, but political circles here were fairly buzzing with speculation about it today, and comparing it to the old Wilsonian policy of putting the power of the White House behind its friends.

"The fact is that the House plan will secure development of this great resource more effectively and more greatly in the interest of Tennessee than would the Senate plan. I am assured that the Senate plan cannot

Vote Shows That Prime Minister MacKenzie And His Liberals Suffer Defeats

CONSERVATIVES GAIN STRENGTH

(International News Service)

OTTAWA, July 29.—Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie and his liberal party government has suffered a smashing defeat at the hands of the conservatives, incomplete returns from yesterday's general elections indicated today. The conservatives won 90 of the first 139 seats decided, which gave a lead of more than 40 over the liberals.

Outstanding in the setbacks of the liberals was the victory of the conservatives in the traditionally liberal province, Quebec, where the conservatives made a gain of 20 seats in the House of Commons. Two of the premier's ministers, Lucien Cannon, solicitor general, and W. F. Kay, minister without portfolio, were among the liberals defeated.

Two others of the cabinet also failed in the election, T. A. Crerar, Brandon, Man., minister of railways, and Charles Dunning, Regina, Sask., meeting defeat, running as minister of finance.

Early returns showed the premier himself was running behind in his seat, Prince Albert, Sask., but he was expected to overcome his early loss in later returns today.

(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 29.—Say, what do you know about "Ma" Ferguson down in Texas. I know "Ma" and I like her. She pulled her husband out of a bog-hole one time, and that has always hit the old-timers as just about what a real old western wife should do.

They overestimated this governor thing anyhow. States have good ones, bad ones and every kind and yet they drag along about the same.

Things in our country run in spite of government, not by the aid of it.

Did you ever see the likes of candidates everywhere? Every male white child over the age of 21 is running for something.

You can always tell a poor business year, by the number of candidates. When nobody else will give you employment, you feel like the state should.

"Ma" Ferguson To Oppose Sterling For Governorship

Run-Off Primary Scheduled For August 23—Mrs. Ferguson Is Confident

PRIMARY BATTLE IS HARD FOUGHT

(International News Service)

DALLAS, Tex., July 29.—Political alignments in the Democratic party were in order throughout Texas today as preparations were made for the run-off primary Saturday, August 23, when either Mrs. Miriam A. (Ma) Ferguson, or Ross Sterling, Houston publisher, will be chosen as the gubernatorial nominee.

In Saturday's primary Mrs. Ferguson, former governor herself and wife of a two-term governor, pitted up a lead of 55,441 votes over her closest competitor, Sterling.

Governor Dan Moody was among those who asserted they would support Sterling. Moody declined to run for a third term. Another Sterling supporter was Thomas Love, state senator.

Two notable supporters of the Ferguson cause were Frank Putnam of Houston, a liberal candidate, and Dr. C. Walker.

In a total of 700,000 votes counted Mrs. Ferguson was leading Sterling by 55,441 votes. Sterling in turn was leading Clint Small by 40,000 votes and the other candidates were trailing these three.

DIES SUDDENLY IN GROVE CITY

Albert M. Hoffmaster, aged 72 years, died very suddenly at his home in Grove City, Pa., at 12 noon Monday, July 28. All of his early life was spent in and around Hillsville, Pa., but he had lived in Grove City for the past ten years. He suffered a severe fall six weeks ago but seemed to be recovering when complications set in which, together with the heat, were too much for his weakened condition.

He was a worker in the Grace M. E. church of Grove City but still retained his membership in the Hillsville Methodist church. He leaves his wife, Lizzie E., one son, Wright R., and a granddaughter, Eleanor. He also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Celesta Stacy of Youngstown, Ohio, and Mrs. Lucy Patterson of New Castle, and one brother, William Hoffmaster, Youngstown, O.

Funeral services will be held in Grove City Thursday, July 21, at 2 p. m., eastern standard time. Interment will be made at Oak Park mausoleum, New Castle, where brief services will be held at 4 p. m. eastern standard time.

Argument Done, Court To Rule On Injunction

Hearing Closes Before Noon With Counsel Arguing On Motion To Quash

RULING LIKELY IN SHORT TIME

Hearing on the injunction proceedings brought by the Pittsburgh, Harmony, Butler and New Castle Railway company restraining the City of New Castle and the Woods & Golder Construction company from interfering in any way with the operation of the company during the repaving of Butler avenue, came to a close shortly before noon today, after having been in progress before Judge A. Chambers since Monday morning.

When Attorney J. Norman Martin, counsel for the Pittsburgh, Harmony, Butler and New Castle Railway company, had completed his rather lengthy argument on the motion of City Solicitor R. M. White made late Monday, that the action be quashed, Solicitor White responded briefly and with great force regarding the rights of the city and the company relative to the streets of the city, causing a short rebuttal by Attorney Martin because of the strenuous terms that he used.

At the conclusion of the argument, Judge James A. Chambers stated that he "would not decide the question just now, but would dispose of it shortly."

Crew Of 37 And 7 Passengers Aboard As Dirigible Sails For Montreal

SIGHTED OVER RATHLIN ISLAND

Expect To Make Crossing In Three Days In Britain's Palatial Air Liner

(BULLETIN)

LONDON, July 29. — The British dirigible R-100, bucking adverse winds and forcing her blunt nose through masses of low-hanging clouds, left the British Isles behind and sailed out over a choppy sea on her voyage to Canada shortly before 1 p. m. today (9 a. m. Eastern Daylight Time).

At 2 p. m. G. M. T. (10 a. m. Eastern Daylight Time): the big airship reported by wireless that her position was 55.15 degrees north latitude, 09.10 degrees west longitude.

LONDON, July 29. — The giant British dirigible R-100, bound from Cardington, Eng., to Montreal, swept over Rathlin Island, off the Northern coast of Ireland in the North Channel at noon today (7 a. m. Eastern Daylight Saving time).

The huge airship traveling at great speed as it swept across the southwestern tip of Scotland and out over the stormy North Channel, heading for the Hebrides.

The airship had soared up the Mull of Kintyre in a heavy fog, and cut across the channel and followed the mainland to Cusendall. The dirigible then struck a course out over the channel again to Rathlin Island and thence northward.

The dirigible previously had been sighted over the Isle of Man.

There was some dismay over the R-100's slow progress, but it was believed here the ship's commander was jockeying for a favorable position before striking out across the Atlantic. At 2:30 p. m. (9:30 a. m. Eastern Daylight Saving Time), the Air Ministry received a wireless message from the airship. The message stated that

There have been years when his guess was wrong when his annual vacation was due, and he came back home with a sort of groch when the two weeks loafing was through. For it rained and it rained and the weather was chill, his vacation he said was a flop, but it's different this year for the weather is dry, and his fun has had never a stop. He drove far away where the corn looks like trees and the country as flat as your hand, and the cards he sends back seem to indicate this, that this year his vacation is grand. But the time will soon come when he's back on the job, and he's finished with two weeks of play, but I'm glad that the weather has suited him once, it's warm, ninety seven today.

Mere Possession Of Machine Should Not Permit All To Drive

Motor Club Head Declares Many Unfits Are Now Driving Cars

Mere possession of an automobile should not entitle any member of the owner's family to operate it, regardless of their mental and physical ability to take their place in traffic, according to R. W. Bolsinger, president of the New Castle Motor Club, which is affiliated with the American Automobile Association.

However, said Mr. Bolsinger, this is exactly what is happening in states without an adequate driver's license law, as a result the village idiot or his near-sighted cousin can drive a car and endanger the lives of pedestrians and other motorists.

The A. A. A. Club executive said that few motorists, especially those who live in any of the 10 North Atlantic states, where driver's licenses with mandatory examination are required, realize that in all of the rest of the country there are only two states, in the extreme West, which have such complete driver's license systems.

"Of the remaining 36," he continued, "there are eight which require all operators to be licensed, but without mandatory examination, and these eight states show little, if any, better record than those which require no license at all."

"For the rest, 16 states license only chauffeurs, while 12 states have no requirements of any sort as to licensing of operators or chauffeurs, and anybody at all is free to attempt to operate a vehicle which, in incompetent hands, is a dangerous weapon."

Mr. Bolsinger said that the need of universal adoption of driver's license laws is easily seen by the fact that records of states with adequate laws show that only 25 per cent of the drivers fail on the first test.

You're the JUDGE

An elderly woman, after years of accumulation, finally gathered together a little nest egg of several thousands of dollars. They were nesting in the "drawing" the usual rate of interest, when her cousin came to her and suggested that he invest it for her so that it would earn a larger return.

The elder lady readily consented and turned over the money to him. Six years later, however, she suddenly found need for some of the money and called her cousin to her and asked him for it. But he refused to get it for her. He answered that he did not have it, and then went away. Things, with the cousin, apparently, right then and there started to go badly, and pretty soon the elderly lady was "told" by a "number" of persons, who told her that the cousin also owed them money, and induced her to sign a "composition" of all creditors of her cousin's. By that composition the elderly lady agreed to accept a pro rata share of the proceeds of the sale of her cousin's estate.

But somehow she found out before any money had been paid her that some of the creditors had been promised payment in full just so as to get their signature on the "composition." This the elderly lady understood to be highly unfair and she became greatly incensed over it, went to a lawyer and ordered him to file suit.

AMERICAN REPORTERS BROADCAST ACCOUNT OF QUAKE AFTERMATH

The Mediterranean fifty miles from Rome. Their voices were heard clearly in this country.

Marconi, inventor of the wireless and a world famous personality, first introduced Abbott.

Marconi spoke briefly and then Le-mont was introduced. The latter described the events that have transpired in Italy since the disaster of July 23, stressing the work of the reconstruction and relief.

Marconi was the last speaker. He said he felt sure that Italy has American "true and sincere sympathy." "I am glad to assure my American friends that everything possible is being done over here, both by the government of Italy, and privately, to alleviate and succor," said Marconi.

The special international program was transmitted from the Electra on a short wave length of 25 meters, and was picked up at the Riverhead, L. I. radio station, from where it was brought to the New York studios of the broadcasting company by special telephone wires.

From New York the program was re-broadcast over a network of 36 radio stations, as far west as Denver, as far South as Dallas and as far Northeast as Portland, Maine.

A few minutes before the program was started, Frank Mason, president of International News Service, and Abbott engaged in a two-way conversation arranging details of the event. Mason was present in the broadcasting company's New York studios, as were a number of other prominent persons, including M. H. Aylesworth, Avery Marks, George W. Johnstone and Charles W. Horn, officials of the National Broadcasting company; Emanuele Grazi, Italian Consul General of New York; Magno Santo Vincenzo, Acting Consul General, and Prince Rospigliosi.

Many New Castle radio fans listened in on the account as broadcast by the newspaper men. Among them was Thomas Dugan, a member of The News composing room force. The program was a pleasant surprise for Mr. Dugan as in his work he has set many stories written by Abbott and Lemont.

expressions of gratitude to W. H. Neill, skipper of the Amasstone, who lowered boats and picked up the survivors who were swimming in the icy water.

The survivors, clinging to bits of driftwood and wreckage from the "Whelan," attracted the attention of the Amasstone's lookout by shouts and fiftful flashes from flashlights they had on their persons when they leaped into the lake.

Skipper Neill altered his course and bore down on the newly discovered victims. Five lifeboats were lowered from the Amasstone's deck and the six men were dragged aboard.

The Amasstone cruised in the vicinity for over an hour looking for other possible survivors without success. Captain Neill then headed for Erie with the rescued seamen, several of whom were suffering badly from exposure.

The Whelan was owned by the Kelly Island Transportation company of Cleveland and was enroute from Sandusky, O., to Tonawanda, N. Y., with a load of stone.

Sudden List.

About 1 o'clock this morning, while the vessel was off the New York shore at Van Buren, the Whelan suddenly developed a decided list, rolled over and plunged beneath the waves.

The six men who escaped leaped over the rail and into the water. Most of those believed to have been drowned were asleep in their bunks and had no chance to save themselves.

Captain T. J. Wage of Cleveland, skipper of the Whelan, is believed to have gone down with his ship.

Lake craft at noon today were scouring the water near where the Whelan went down for survivors who might have been overlooked during the night search. No others were picked up, however, and it was regarded as practically certain that the entire 15 had perished.

STAR LORE

SHIFT OF HORIZON PLANE FROM EQUATOR TO POLE

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

We are now prepared to grasp the picture of the continuous dip of the horizon's plane from equator to pole. We have seen that at the equator, the sun rises and sets at right angles with the horizon; that the plane of the horizon dips under the north pole as one journeys northward from the equator, causing sun and stars to cross the heavens obliquely; and finally, for the longest days of northern polar summer, if one is within the plane of the Arctic circle, the sun does not go down, for the horizon plane has dipped under the pole 90 degrees, leaving the sun above the entire circle of the horizon.

be passed in the House nor would I approve the plan, because it is not in the interest of Tennessee or the rest of the Nation. Your course has been the only one which can secure an advancement of this development in the interest of the people of Tennessee.

Would Have Commission

The so-called Reece plan is to appoint a Federal Commission of three to negotiate for the leasing of Muscle Shoals to private power interests.

During the campaign for the presidency, when pressed to expand his views on what should be done with Shoals, Mr. Hoover said that while in general he favored a policy of private development of hydro-electric power, he considered Muscle Shoals "an exception" to such a policy. In his first message to Congress, however, he recommended a policy akin to the Reece plan.

The Muscle Shoals matter is going to be fought out all over again in the next session of Congress. That much is certain. The Senate has twice passed the Norris Bill providing for government operation, while the well-disciplined House has refused to accept it.

Brand New Policy

One assured, and foregone result of the Reece letter is that the House is going to be inundated with appeals for similar outspoken support from the President. These appeals have hitherto been discouraged. On several occasions Mr. Hoover has gone out of his way to assure candidates that he takes no sides in Republican primary fights. The last and most notable occasion was in the New Jersey primary. Twice during that battle Mr. Hoover issued public statements avowing his disinterestedness, this notwithstanding that Dwight Morrow was running as a vet and Franklin Fort, one of Mr. Hoover's most intimate friends and advisers, was running as a dry, and a "Hoover candidate." The last designation was whispered throughout Jersey by Port's managers.

The Reece letter, besides furnishing an insight into a new political policy on the part of Mr. Hoover, also threw some illumination on the power policy of the administration.

"I hear," Mr. Hoover wrote Reece, "that your opponents are charging you with failure to serve the interests of your constituents because you refused to accept the Senate (Norris) plan for dealing with Muscle Shoals."

Takes Sides

Senator Norris declared that in writing the letter to Reece "the President takes the side of the power trust."

"It seems to me," said the Nebraskan, "that it is a violation of the pledge he made during the campaign, which many leaders of Tennessee took in good faith. The people of Tennessee were led to believe that Mr. Hoover favored government operation of Muscle Shoals."

Senator McKellar (D) of Tennessee, declared it was "unusual" for the President to invade a party primary,

"but" what he is really doing" McKellar added "is to come out squarely for the power interests."

Price, the opponent of Reece, has been conducting his campaign on a platform endorsing the Norris bill. The result of the fight in the first district of Tennessee should prove an interesting referendum on what the people want done with the great plant that lies at its back door. It should also prove, incidentally, the efficacy of Mr. Hoover's endorsement of Reece.

BRITISH AIR SHIP HEADS FOR CANADA; COURSE UNCERTAIN

The ship had cleared the Island of Overyay in the neighborhood of Artylshire shortly after noon, taking a westerly course. The ship's ground speed was 50 knots an hour. The commander reported "All well."

Chester, England, July 29.—The R-100, British dirigible bound for Canada, passed this city at 7:00 a. m. today (1 a. m. Eastern Daylight Time).

The humming shape apparently was flying at an easy speed, headed for Liverpool.

London, July 29.—The British Air Ministry announced that at 8:15 a. m. today (2:15 a. m. Eastern Daylight Time) no contact had been established with the R-100 now estimated in the vicinity of coast.

Easy Take Off

Cardington, Wales, July 29.—Shooting northward in its flight to St. Hubert Airfield at Montreal, the British dirigible R-100 today sailed the skies serenely on the first leg of its 2,800-mile trans-Atlantic cruise.

The world's biggest and fastest air-liner soared away from its mooring mast here at 3:45 a. m. this morning, just as the first pale touch of dawn was graying the horizon. Looming momentarily like a storm cloud above its home base, the 5,000,000-cubic feet bulk roared in a wide circle around the field, gathered momentum rapidly and like a flying cloud nosed away in the direction of Liverpool.

Commanded by the intrepid and seasoned air veteran Squadron Leader R. S. Booth, the take-off was accomplished as gracefully as any ever engineered by Dr. Hugo Eckener in his Graf Zeppelin. Forty-four persons went aloft with the airship, 37 of them members of the crew and the rest in the capacity of technical observers of the like. Among them is Commander Sir Dennistoun Burney, responsible for the ship's construction and who lavished many years of effort and development upon the construction of the airship.

Course Uncertain

While the exact course of the R-100 remains on weather conditions ahead, it was announced immediately before the start that the ship was crossing the English coast at Liverpool and heading northward toward the Hebrides Islands of the west coast of Scotland to skirt a depression, the huge airship would be pointed directly toward Cape Farewell, southernmost tip of Greenland.

Continuing from there it will cruise over Labrador to the mouth of the St. Lawrence river, following this to Montreal.

The voyage is expected to be completed inside of three days, although a wide margin of food and fuel was allowed for. The 2,000 pounds of food and 500 gallons of water in the storage tanks of the dirigible will be sufficient for at least five days. It was estimated, and there are thirty tons of gasoline.

Never has an airliner fared forth more comfortably and luxuriously equipped than is the R-100. Product of 10 years experimenting and built at an approximate cost of $2,500,000, it carries the empire's fond hopes that in the not far distant future Canada and the Mother Land will become more closely linked through rapid mail and passenger service provided by dirigibles spanning the Atlantic as regularly as steamships.

The average speed of the British air queen is 81.50 miles per hour, or nearly five miles faster than the best speed of any craft Zeppeled in a secondary way, therefore, Great Britain will also seek in the next two days to capture the speed record of the air for long distance voyages by dirigibles.

ITALIAN TOWNS ROCKED BY QUAKE APPROACH NORMAL

danger of water famine averted by rebuilding or damaged aqueducts.

In even the worst stricken provinces roads have been cleared and are open to traffic; food is being regularly distributed to the population by the organized forces of relief; electric service and other public necessities such as telephones and telegraph wires and mails have been re-established, and hundreds of persons have returned to homes that escaped ruin.

Sixty thousand homeless still encamped in the surrounding fields and hillsides have been well provided with immediate needs, and medical forces are closely watching for signs of disease. Troops will remain in the devastated section until complete order has been restored.

Says 15,000 Dead

London, July 29.—A special correspondent of the London Daily Herald now touring the stricken earthquake zone of South Central Italy reported today that in his estimation, 15,000 persons were killed by the shocks.

He expressed belief that sixty per cent of the bodies still remain beneath the ruins, and that a sum total of 500 communes were affected by the tremors.

WEDDING PERFORMED IN WESTMINSTER CHAPEL

Of unusual interest is the announcement of the wedding of Miss Mary V. Beatty, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George M. Beatty of Chicago, and Donald A. Guthrie of Connoquessing, Pa., which took place in the new chapel of Westminster college Monday evening, July 28, at 6 o'clock.

The ceremony was of more than ordinary interest because of the fact that it was the first wedding to take place in the new chapel of Westminster college.

To strains of music furnished by Mrs. Alan B. Davis at the organ, the nuptials were read by President Dr. W. C. Wallace, assisted by the Rev. W. E. Guthrie, pastor of the Connoquessing United Presbyterian church and the father of the groom, before an assemblage of the immediate families and Mrs. W. C. Wallace. They were attended by Miss Martha McPherson of Connoquessing, a member of the Phi Phi, sorority sister of the bride, as maid of honor, and D. Lyle Guthrie of Connoquessing, brother of the groom, who served as best man.

A wedding dinner supplemented the ceremony served at The Castleton.

Mrs. Guthrie is a graduate of Westminster college class of '26, while Mr. Guthrie graduated from the same school in the class of '23.

After August 1 Mr. and Mrs. Guthrie will take up their residence at Lebanon, Pa., where the former is manager of the J. G. McCrory store of that place.

West Side Meets
The West Side W. C. T. U. met Friday at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. W. H. Pattison, West Washington street extension. Devotions were led by Mrs. T. D. Allen. The meeting opened by singing "Rock of Ages" after which all were asked to take part in prayer. Scripture lesson was taken from Proverbs, Chapters 22 and 23 as this was T. L. B. and Mothers meeting. These chapters deal with the training of children.

At the last meeting each member was requested to respond to roll call with a verse of scripture committed since the last meeting. One member had committed all of the 91st Psalm and urged the rest to also commit it as it is a wonderful Psalm to help us on in our every day duties which God gives us to perform for him. Mrs. Hunter received a card of thanks to the Union from the Maybray family for the beautiful flowers sent to their mother in the time of their bereavement.

A number of members paid their dues at this time. The children sang the beautiful song, "There is a Friend for Little Children," and little Miss Grace Cavender recited a short poem.

Mrs. Allen introduced Dr. Jack who had been invited to speak to the mothers. Dr. Jack said she was glad to be at the meeting and to speak to the W. C. T. U. mothers and the others present. Dr. Jack gave a wonderful message on the physical and spiritual training of the children.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Pattison, assisted by Mrs. Leslie and Mrs. Rote. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Frank Fisher, Atlantic avenue, next month. Mrs. J. D. Phillips closed the meeting with prayer.

Twenty mothers and members were present. Visitors were the Misses Ada, Esther and Margie McCready, of Ashland, O., nieces of Mrs. Allen.

Must Hear Facts In Brown Appeal Attorneys Argue

Arguments Must Be Held August 19 In Brown's Behalf Attorneys Contend

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—Arguments must be held on August 19th in the case of Francis Shunk Brown, Sr., in the much discussed Luzerne county ballot perforation case, attorneys for Brown held today in commenting on the briefs filed in the Supreme Court here yesterday on behalf of Gifford Pinchot.

Before the high court can hear the arguments Brown's attorneys have prepared, the members must, however, hear arguments on the three Schnader filed at Pinchot's instigation.

In the three points raised Schnader demanded the quashing of the appeal of the three Wilkes-Barre residents who took the case to the higher court quashing the general appeal of Brown's lawyers, and the setting aside of a ruling of Supreme Court made on June 21st last directing the Luzerne county commissioners to certify the official returns of the primary vote to the state election bureau at Harrisburg subject to modification, correction or rejection.

The latest move by the Pinchot faction has placed the Brown faction on the defensive in their efforts to rule Brown and not Pinchot won the recent gubernatorial nomination of the Republican party.

GRATITUDE

Governor Roosevelt, of New York, the other day returned their liberty to four convicts as a reward for their heroism and fearlessness in saving the entire boiler-room equipment during the riots at Clinton Prison a year ago. They risked their lives for the sake of others so richly deserve the freedom which has been given them. The governor's commutation order is instructive:

"I am commuting the sentences of these four men solely as a reward for services rendered by them during the riot. Such assistance to the state and to the forces of law not only entitles them to consideration from the state, but also indicates a desire on their part to become useful members of society."

In this official action the public concurs. No one can help but believe that men capable of such self-sacrifice and courage were in prison more because of the forces of circumstances than for any inherent criminal and unsocial nature. Their regeneration may prove absolute, and if they again go wrong the public will be sincerely disappointed.

This incident recalls to mind that bit of philosophy which says there is so much of good in the worst of us and so much of bad in the best of us that it ill behooves any of us to speak ill of the rest of us.

THE "LISTENER" HAS HIS DAY

It has been said time and again that there is no critic more "difficult" than one who pays nothing. This is true of radio with one qualification.

In a sense the radio listener pays nothing for the costly programs he hears and is so free to criticize. Indirectly it is his money which operates the broadcasting stations and provides the talent that goes before the mike.

The whole radio structure is built upon the investment of owners of radio receiving sets. No single listener's investment is large, but when the average cost of single sets is multiplied by millions, and to this is added the annual cost of operations and upkeep, the aggregate cost, to the listeners, of radio programs reaches vast proportions.

Therefore the readiness of the listener to criticize the radio fare is not to be condemned on the ground that he has no financial interest in the matter. Just as well condemn criticism by the public of plays, books, merchandise and candidates. That of the receiving set owner is the one financial interest most fundamentally essential to the entire radio business, and the promoters of that business will not cease to give most careful attention to what he has to say about programs.

Should people stop buying radio sets and accessories and "silent" nights become a general thing in the homes, high-powered salesmanship would not avail the broadcasters in selling the "time" for which the demand is now greater than the supply. Popularity is the greatest asset of the radio business.

FALSE ECONOMY

You know the jay-walker—in fact, you have probably burned your tires at one time or another to keep from running him down. He crosses the street wherever and however he pleases, without regard for his own safety and the hearts and tempers of motorists. He takes intersections on a diagonal. He is never content to follow the regular path. He thinks he is saving time. But is he? The dodging, jumping and backing uses more time than it would have taken to follow the regular path. And he is taking a needless risk.

Mr. Jay-Walker has a brother, the jay-buyer. He always knows a way to buy things cheaper. He knows of a man who sells radios dirt cheap—"makes them himself." He has discovered a little unknown tire dealer—"his tires cost about half what you pay for advertised makes." He has found a way to beat the "gasoline trust." He thinks he is saving money. But is he?

Somewhat or other he just cannot make his income go as far as Bill, across the way. Yet Bill has the habit of reading advertisements and buying standard goods. Bills radio gets more stations. Bill gets more mileage from his gasoline and his tires never blow out. The first cost of Bill's purchases are the last. The first cost of the jay-buyer's purchases are the least.

There is such a thing as false economy, and the jay-buyer has found it. He does not know it, but the profit on the inferior products he buys is many times that of the standard goods reliable manufacturers and merchants advertise.

Trouble is easy to borrow, but hard to pay back.

Some people go about a thing while others talk about it.

THE BUSY LIFE

'Tis well for man to dream of peace,
But better 'tis that he Shall never see his battles cease
Than grow a drone to be.
Old Age should keep the rocking chair,
But while a man is strong
'Twill keep his courage in repair
To labor with the throng.

This world has need for busy men.
There still is much to do.
The idler dozing in his den
Is lost to mortal view.
But he who clears a swampy place
To build a garden gay,
Has made the world a better place
For all who pass his way.

The man who keeps his dreams alive
When need exists no more,
And dares to toil and dares to strive
For better than before,
Finds richer pleasure through the years
In all the care he knows.
And all the pains and doubts and fears
Than idle peace bestows.

'Tis not enough the purse to fill,
The mind must be content;
A manly man must labor till
His strength is wholly spent.

For happiness is born of pain,
And peace is born of strife.
They best enjoy the rest they gain
Who lead a busy life.

France Manages Well.

Kansas Drinks Jake.

South Carolina Iodine.

What Is, We Accept.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1930, King Features

Syn., Inc.)

A Washington dispatch tells farmers that the "Farmer's National Grain Corporation" next year will "handle probably half the wheat grown in the United States." Mr. Huff, head of the corporation, does not advise farmers to hold their wheat for higher prices, but he does believe prices will be higher. "Hope at the bread of the poor," as the old Creek said, and farm—

Conditions are different in France where the French minister of agriculture advises peasants to sell their wheat "at the present high prices." It is interesting American farmers selling wheat at 60 cents or less, on the farm, to learn that French peasants are getting $1.71 a bushel. France knows how to "stabilize wheat prices" and relieve the farmer.

Our government bought 69,000,000 bushels of wheat to relieve farmers and the price dropped from well above $1 a bushel to well below 99 cents a bushel.

There is no secret about French wheat prices. They are due to French belief in protection, which has been strong ever since the "Field of the Cloth of Gold" where Francis the first wrestled with Henry the Eighth. Flour made or sold in France must contain at least 90 per cent French wheat, recently it was 97 per cent.

Thousands of American citizens have been poisoned and paralyzed by an alcoholic ginger extract called "jake." That doesn't surprise you. When the government won't let people have beer, wine or their old fashioned whiskey, they will drink other things—varnish, hair tonics, or a poisonous ginger mixture.

But you are surprised to hear that 1,100 of the paralyzed "jake" victims are in Kansas, supposedly to be dry, by choice.

Collier's Weekly described young Kansas boys and girls drinking the alcoholic ginger "jake" from innocent looking glasses in drug stores.

The government and people of South Carolina wish you to know that vegetables, fruits, milk, cream, eggs and other products of that state are rich in iodine, which prevents goiter. Through its "South Carolina Natural Resource Commission" the state gives information about, goiter (throat) and the country. In some western and northern states "as high as 10 per cent of high school girls have enlarged thyroids." In other places west, the proportion is 40 to 60 per cent.

A large percentage of young pigs are born dead or imperfect and soon die, because the mothers haven't enough iodine in their systems and in another state "sheep fail to reproduce for lack of iodine."

Farm lands in South Carolina may be had at the lowest prices in many years. The possibilities there are of interest to those that have money. To develop land you need a money to start.

We wonder how our ancestors lived in Europe when the only sewers were street gutters, and even in the French king's palace the stench of sewage was abominable.

To those then living, such conditions seemed natural and correct. What is, we take for granted.

New York City's biggest, richest in the world, lives surrounded by sewage. Its health department tried vainly to prevent a swimming contest around the city, saving the contestants must swim with open mouths in water full of sewage, and many probably would be made ill.

The sewage could be piped to lands that need it, or chemically eliminated, and the garbage could be burned. That will come.

Missionaries are fleeing from the interior of China and the new Chinese authorities, blind and dead to their own chance for salvation, forbid any more teaching of Christianity in China's schools.

If the discouragement of China's missionaries should be permanent, many could be spared of spiritual labor here in the United States. The old hymn says, "Way out upon the prairie, how many children dwell, that never read the Bible, or heard of the Sabbath bell." That's true of big cities.

This country is rich, but even a gold mine can be exhausted. You realize partly what is wrong with us when you hear that the Shipping Board has cost the country thus far, three billion six hundred and eighty-nine thousand dollars. That's a good deal.

Add to that various other costs, including that of bootlegging, racketeering, etc., amounting to several billions a year, equaling the entire cost of the national government, and you realize that even the United States may spend too much.

Ratification Of Navy Treaty Credited To Public Demands

Nonpartisan Nature of Fight, Defeat Of Isolationists And Guarantee Of Freedom From Competition In Armaments Are Emphasized

Overwhelming success of the naval treaty in the senate is credited to public demands, and in national comment tribute is paid to both President Hoover and the Democratic leadership for the nonpartisan character of the victory. Emphasis is placed upon the fact that for the first time since the World War the American people in congress have suffered a severe setback.

On the question of party lines the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR says: "President Hoover, the Democratic leadership of the senate and the country are to be congratulated on the successful termination of the ratification fight in the senate. It was clear from the beginning that without the support of the Democrats the treaty could not be ratified. Laying aside all partisanship, the Democratic leadership, under the leadership of Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, their party leader, gave whole-hearted support to the treaty."

"Weeks ago, when plans for the special session were first formulated," according to the NEW YORK SUN, "a careful poll of the senate showed it 80 to 16 in favor of ratification. Counting senators absent, paired and not paired, the senate yesterday stood 82 to 14 in favor of ratification. The debate, including the unsuccessful demand for submission of all state department papers bearing on the treaty apparently did not change half a dozen votes."

In more critical vein, the CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE holds that "the country could have made greater point of its own self-interest without diminishing at all the effect of a sympathetic understanding of British problems." That paper adds: "The treaty should be a silence for the American internationalists and pacifists for the time being. It is the concession to time, and the government, having made it, has a definite responsibility to the rest of the country. It is mandatory upon the administration and congress to give the navy everything permitted in the treaty. The provisions do not set a maximum upon which the government may recede but a minimum which must be used to the full. That is the act of good faith which is required of the government."

Credit to both parties in action and debate is given by the SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE and the NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE. The SYRACUSE HERALD sees "a reflection of the popular will and temper," while the SAVANNAH MORNING NEWS believes that "the one-sidedness of the decision indicates to Europe and Asia that the United States wants to do what can be done among the nations toward preventing military racing afloat and is anxious to go as far as the nations can toward reaching agreements on even the most delicate subjects."

"The overwhelming manner in which it was ratified by a vote of 58 to 9 should have a heartening effect upon world statesmanship," declares the PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE, and the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN recognizes the president's purpose in view of "the essential need, as he saw it, for the establishment of the all-important asset of good will for the United States among the nations."

"A distinct milestone in the long and sometimes tortuous pathway toward real world peace," is lauded by the ROANOKE WORLD-NEWS, with the statement that "the real meat of the London agreement is that further construction of cruise ships, Great Britain and Japan is stopped, while the United States is permitted to continue its cruiser program until it reaches the allowed limits of 18 eight-inch gun ships and 18 six-inch gun ships."

"The unfavorable reaction to tactics which were exhibited in the regular session probably had much influence in preventing any successful combination to reject the treaty at the special session," avers the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS. The CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER and the WATERLOO TRIBUNE contend that the fate of the pact was not in doubt for a long time. The SCRANTON TIMES thinks it "will strike the average citizen as just a little bit ludicrous that such a small fraction of the membership of the senate could hold up a vote for such a long period." The ROCK ISLAND ARGUS condemns "puerile objections," while the INDIANAPOLIS STAR concludes that "the vast majority of Americans took no stock in much of the buncombe that is paraded every time a question of international relations is before congress," and the CHARLOTTE NEWS feels that it is a means of giving Mr. Hoover "an outstanding role in the presidential succession" that "he more than any other, is responsible for the acceptance by the senate of its duty."

"It is a stunning defeat for jingoism and diehards and the first notable triumph of reason over nationalistic timidity and chauvinism in the senate since the World War," maintains the TOPEKA DAILY CAPITAL. The ANN ARBOR DAILY NEWS is impressed by the fact that "the enemies of President Hoover discovered that public sentiment was against them in their frantic effort to place America on record as opposed to the ideal of peace, in behalf of which she has been taking the leadership in recent years."

The MILWAUKEE JOURNAL welcomes "the worst defeat the isolationists in the senate have received since the issue of isolation was raised in connection with the League of Nations." The LOUISVILLE TIMES sees "a step in the right direction, taken with a will," and the "smashing" (Continued On Page Five)

SOCRATES KNEW.

In the dry and dusty books of a lawyer's library, are found some delightful literature. One of the latest contributions to this literature is to be found in the Opinion of Judge Gilbert, of the Supreme Court of Georgia, in Montgomery vs. Maryland.

The opinion is to be found in the 151st Volume of the South Eastern Reporter. It is about a dog.

James A. Rourke Machine Company operated on the Savannah river a plant where it engaged in repairing boats. Under the Workmen's Compensation Act the Maryland and Rourke Company had underwritten its liability for injury to employees. John Montgomery was employed as custodian or watchman of the property. He was accidentally drowned on the premises of the employer in attempting to rescue his dog which had fallen into the river.

Applied to the Industrial Commission for compensation. The application was denied, and that finding was upheld by the superior court of Chatham county. On appeal the judgment was affirmed by the Court of Appeals. Application for writ of certiorari to the Court of Appeals was granted by this court.

The insistence of the plaintiff is that the dog was a necessary part of the "equipment" of her husband in discharging his duty as watchman. And this is the basis of her claim for compensation.

"From the dawn of primal history, the dog has loomed large in the art and literature of the world, including judicial literature. So it doubtless will be until the 'crack of doom.'"

In metal and in stone his noble image has been perpetuated, but the dog's chief monument is in the heart of his friend, man. As a house pet, a watch dog, a herder of sheep and cattle, in the field of sport, and as the motive power of transportation, especially in the ice fields of the far north, as well as in the Antarctic, the dog has ever been a faithful companion and helper of man.

Vets Are Ready For Big Picnic On Wednesday

Residents Of Community Are Invited To Assist In Making Day Memorable
One

MANY VISITORS ARE EXPECTED HERE

Fine Sports Program Is Arranged By Committee For Afternoon And Evening

All arrangements have been completed by the Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, for their annual community picnic which will be held at Cascade Park, Wednesday.

In addition to the citizens of New Castle, and members of other veterans' organizations, invitations have been extended to V. F. W. posts in the surrounding district, all of whom are expected to be well represented.

There will be free dancing between 3 and 5 o'clock, free coffee and ice cold drinks will be served in the grove during the dinner hour, and there will be a great sports program for all.

Many Special Prizes
In addition, many special events have been listed, which will be of interest to the visitors as well as those from this city. A prize of $5 has been offered to the largest family on the grounds at 5 p. m. Then there will be a prize of $5 for the oldest veteran in attendance and $5 for the youngest veteran present.

A registration booth will be established, where all veterans can register for these special prizes.

Then in addition, there will be a grand drawing for gifts which will be open to all V. F. W. members and their wives in attendance.

Because of the fact that many of the veterans are working and will be unable to get to the park until early in the evening, the main sports program events will not be started until 7 o'clock.

Events which are limited to V. F. W. members only, include a Tom Thumb golf match, in which prizes will be awarded for the low individual score and the low foursome score; rifle shooting contest; ski-ball match, etc.

A total of $250 in prizes, all merchandise from local stores, will be awarded in the various athletic contests, a well balanced program having been arranged for the children, and adults.

A special invitation is issued to members of the Perry S. Gaston Post, American Legion, and Col. Daniel Leasure Camp, Spanish War Veterans, to attend the picnic and participate in the fun of the day.

Tomorrow's picnic is expected to prove the biggest event of its kind ever held by the McBride Post, and hundreds of local folks, in addition to many visiting veterans are expected present for the occasion.

Many local people are of the opinion that the picnic is for war veterans only, but this is not the case. The general picnic chairman states, as every person in the city will be most cordially welcomed at the picnic.

Eleven New Boys At Camp Phillips

New Contingent Arrives Monday
For Outing; Honor Awards Announced

(Special To The News)
CAMP JOHN M. PHILLIPS, July 29.—Camp Phillips felt the relief reinforcements of 11 new Scouts on Monday. New boys entering camp were Frank Baldwin, Bob Brown, Harry Brown, Charles Carbeau, Ray
Haley, Jack Mitchell, Ed. Morris, Paul Ray, Bill Shook, James Taylor and Vic Wagner. The boys were relieved from the intense heat by four swimming periods during the day instead of two. While the water was warm, it was a relief from the sun's hot rays.

Frank Elverson passed the wayseeker scalp and Harper passed personal health.

High point man during the day was Frank Elverson with 160 points, and Bob Howe was second with 115 points;
Bob Patterson third with 100 points.

Herbert Christman, star Scout, was a visitor during the evening.

Camp emblems were awarded to Scouts McClure and Kirkpatrick over the week-end. Leathercraft merit badge was passed by Bob Casner and first-class handicraft was passed by Casner. Second-class first aid and compass were passed by Jim Hartland. George Phillips and Frank Mc-Clure passed first-class signmaking.

A number of boys from the camp were sent to be escorts of Paul Siple on Sunday. Each boy had the privilege of a handclasp with him. Boys who greeted him were Robert Patterson, William Breneman, Reed Patterson, Clair Hanna, Ed. McGreary, George Phillips, Wilford Kraybill, Paul Liscomb, Tom Rambo, Earl Timblin, Bud Gordon, Mac Leslie, Frank McClure, Tom Ernstrom, Bill Woodworth and Tom Hawkins.

Final arrangements for the departure of Troop F to Mount Gretna on August 1 were completed this week.
Announcement was made that the time of departure will be at 6:11 p. m.
Friday. Two Pullmans will convey the guardsmen to camp via the Pennsylvania Railroad.

First Class Privates Davis Dicks and Clarence Billett and Bugler Frank Edgar will leave Wednesday ahead of the troop to prepare the camp.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

dogged war bristle his angry crest and snarl in the gentle eyes of peace.—
King John, act IV, Scene 3. Holy Writ abounds with his mention. As "A living dog is better than a dead lion."—Ecclesiastes, IX 4. "Who loves me loves my dog" is a French proverb of the thirteenth century, and in substance has figured in the literature of many writers, including St. Bernard of Clairvaux and Erasmus. Poets great and small, their pens inspired by the Olympic maid, have paid tribute to the dog. Lord Byron, who was devoted to his "Boatswain," wrote him:

"But the poor dog, in life the firmest friend,
The first to welcome, foremost to defend,
Whose honest heart is still his master's own,
Who labors, fights, lives, breaths for him alone."

And again:

"Tis sweet to hear the watch dog's honest bark Bay deep mouthed welcome as we draw near home."

"The great bard of Avon, in his Julius Caesar, makes Brutus say, 'I had rather be a dog and bay the moon, than such a Roman.' And in Macbeth, Shakespeare gives us quite a catalogue of dogs: 'Hounds and greyhounds, mongrels, spaniels, shoughs, water dogs, and demil-wolves; the swift, the slow, the subtle, the housekeeper, the hunter.' And in Midsummer Night's Dream, speaking of hounds, he says: 'Their ears are hung with ears that sweep away the morning dew; crook-kneed and dew-lapp'd like Thessalian bulls; in pursuit, but match'd in slowness like bells, each unto each:'

"Such gallant chiding; for, beside the groves,
The skies, the fountains, every region near Seem'd all one mutual cry. I never heard
So musical a discord, such sweet thunder."

"In modern times Thompson, in 'Major Jones' Courtship,' makes his hero to boast of owning two of the best coon dogs in the settlement, describes the music they make in pursuit, and concludes: 'It puts me in mind of what Shakespeare sez about dogs:'

"I never herd such powerful discord, Such sweet thunder."

"Sir John Lucas, in a Poem 'To a Dog,' pictures his 'wraith in a canine paradise' where the "... little faithful barking ghost

May leap to lick my phantom hand."

"And so with other poets almost without number, among whom are Chaucer, Sir Walter Scott, Alexander Pope, Kipling, Trowbridge, Ruskin, and of course Stephen O. Foster, the author of so many beautiful southern melodies. It was he who wrote 'Old Dog Tray':

"Old dog Tray's ever faithful;
Grief cannot drive him away.
He is gentle, he is kind—
I shall never find
A better friend than old dog Tray."

"Some 3,000 years before Christ Socrates wrote: 'When I see some men, I love my dog the more.'
Baron Curvier considered the dog
"the most complete, the most singular and the most useful conquest man has gained in the animal world."

Xanthippus, father of Pericles, had a dog, which leaped into the sea and swam along the galleys side to follow his master but finally faint and died away near the island of Salamis.
And Plutarch says: "That spot in the island which is still called the 'Dog's Grave' is said to be his."

"It is said that dogs bore their part in the siege of Troy, at Marathon, and in the battle of Salamis." Herodotus said: "In whatsoever house a cat has died by a natural death, all those who dwell in that house shave their eyebrows only; but those in which house a dog has died, shave their whole bodies."

"Alcibiades dog is now represented in marble in Duncombe Hall, England."

"There was Prince Llewellyn and his greyhound 'Gelert'; Sir Isaac Newton and his 'Diamond'; Mirabeau and his 'Chico'; 'Diomed' about whom his master, John S. Wise, wrote a book; Josephine and her 'Fortune' that left a scar on Napoleon's leg;
and Sir Walter Scott and his dozens of dogs."

"Relics of dogs were found among the ruins of Herculaneum beside the forms of Roman sentries. In the late World War the dog shared the dangers of their soldier-masters in flood and field and trench."

"Lord Byron had graven on a marble shaft this tribute to his dog:
'Near this spot is deposited the remains of one who possessed beauty without vanity, strength without insolence, courage without ferocity, and all the virtues of man without his vices. This praise, which would be but meaningless flattery, if inscribed bute to the memory of Boatswain, a dog, who born in Newfoundland, 1803, and died at Newstead Abbey, Novem-

"In like vein Alexander H. Stephens, wrote for his sagacious poodle Rio: 'Here rest the remains of what in life was a satire on the human race, and an honor to his own—a faithful dog.'"

"Senator George Graham Vest said:
The one, absolute, unselfish friend that man can have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous, is his dog."

"Tributes might be multiplied almost without number. Like man, not all dogs are good dogs. They have left behind them records showing every degree of good and bad. One poet's commentary has been judicially recognized in Woodbridge v. Marks 14 Misc. Rep. 363, 36 N. Y. S. 81, 82."

"That dogs delight to bark and bite,
For God hath made them so."

"In the case just cited it was said:
'Conceding the highest place here or hereafter to this companion of man, which is claimed by any one, even to the faith of the Indian:'"

"That in the happy hunting grounds
His faithful dog shall bear him company, Still in the walks of life he must give way to the interests of man."

"For further judicial discussion, see
State v. Langford, 55 S. C. 322, 23 S.
E. 370, 74 Am. St. Rep. 745; Wiley v.
State 22 Barb. (N. Y.) 506; Strong v.
Georgia Ry. etc. Co. 118 Ga. 515, 45
S. E. 366."

"For many of the facts stated above credit is due to Pippa Passes and Rather Doggily, a little classic by William C. Jones, from which I quote as follows: 'When the house is still and only the wind is abroad, Pippa muses by the fire at his master's feet, black muzzle on white paws, and in her eyes that question which troubled the soul of Tamas Carlyle, 'Is the universe friendly or nay?' The hearth is red; fleecy, the rug; the shadows flickering warm; but Pippa is too staunch a terrier to leave danger or doubt unchallenged. She sniffs the unseen, then turns a more disquieted glance to the being in the chair. That clump, twitching nose senses truth beyond the oracle of his book, news beyond his race's find. A growl, snarl, a rush to the window, a dash to the locked door. She lunges and scratches, and leaps, back bristled, flanks heaving, teeth snapping, in her throat a hubbub that would rejoice
the heart of three-headed Cerberus.
The master is roused. What skulker, what power of darkness? A witten, perchance. Woe! It is that ancient anathema of a good dog's world, the dragon that would upset all seven of the tailwagging heavens; it is Grimalkin, the Stray Cat. A wild charge to the back fence, followed by a ferreting of every nook which might harbor the foe, so placates Pippa that the returns with tail as high as a bobbed tail could well be, and soon is aslumber on the rug. * * * When a dutiful ox dies, no epitaph is writ;
rather he is flayed for the parsimonious tanner. When a mule goes the way of all flesh, no mound is reared, hardly though his years have been.
When a lamb dies, still and stark on the trencher, even the poet who was wont to rhyme on the pretty innocent will regale himself with one of its chops. But when a certain little creature, having a bark at one end and a bit of a tail at the other, with a flea or two between takes leave for the Isles of the blest, the lords of earth look foolish while their ladies weep, and humanity feels a tug at the heart."

"A recent story, 'Hound of Heaven' tells of a fox terrier after death, floating through the clouds the cold wings blowing through his whiskers, finally ending at the pearly gates of canine heaven, and fresh upon his admission, he is engaged in mortal combat with 'Hodge,' the famous cat, pet of Samuel Johnson.

"From what has been said, it will not be difficult to ascertain where the sentiment and inclination of this court would lead. The court, however, is a court for the correction of errors, and we must be guided by the law. The law of the case will be found in the headnotes.
'Judgement affirmed.'"

The mystery of the whole matter is, why did the learned Judge go such lengths only to tell the poor widow that her husband should not have risked his life to save a Dog?
Doggone it!

of noisy jingoism, ill-based cynicism and vocal unprogressivism."

Conceding that "stubborn resistance was inevitable," the CHARLOTTE OBSERVER holds that "there is plenty of ground for the belief that the ratification "will have a tendency to promote peace, and therefore is mighty well worth while, even though it does not guarantee permanent peace." The OAKLAND TRIBUNE is of the opinion that failure would have made this country "appear before the world as one which talks and acts to no purpose," and the ASHEVILLE TIMES points out that "disappointment and defeat would have spread among all peoples." The CINCIN-NATI TIMES-STAR calls the majority for the treaty "somewhat startling," and advises that "the prolonged and often absurd preliminaries to ratification should not obscure the fact that this is one of the most important works of the present congress."

The CHARLESTON EVENING POST holds that there will be "much less incentive to try out armed strength and much less temptation to any nation to forestall another at a moment of superiority in armed force."

"National and international rejoicing" is hailed by the ATLANTA JOURNAL, with the further comment as to the purpose of the treaty: "If we are not interested, then we are ostriches with our heads in the sand, refusing to look danger and duty in the face. There is a world beyond our borders, whether we recognize it or no; there are common perils of civilization which we must help to avert or else become their victims. Our most vital concerns today are international.
Our prosperity, our security, our progress are all bound up with that of the rest of mankind."

The fact that the treaty establishes a fixed schedule and guards against naval competition is emphasized by AN-NISTON STAR, the MORGANTOWN DOMINION-NEWS, the FLINT
DAILY JOURNAL, the ST. LOUIS TIMES, the CHATTANOOGA TIMES and the KANSAS CITY STAR. The ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION is impressed by the fact that "parity has been definitely conceded to the United States by Great Britain." The SOUTH END TRIBUNE adds: "Only 23 years ago the nations conferring in The Hague were afraid to include naval armaments in the agenda because the question was considered too delicate for consideration in a peace conference. The London naval treaty illustrates the advance that has been made in that comparatively short period."

"An important step toward ultimate disarmament of nations and the assurance of permanent world peace," is the judgment of the PASADENA STAR-NEWS, while the PROVID-ENCE JOURNAL observes "a triumph for the good sense of the chief naval powers of the world." The BALTIMORE EVENING SUN states:
"John Smith may be justified in throwing up his hat and shouting over the ratification if he is convinced that the treaty will prevent another war.
But he certainly has little reason to shout over any prospective economies in naval building." Future advances are predicted by the LEXINGTON LEADER, and the LINCOLN STATE JOURNAL sees an immediate result in the effect on Italy and France. The AKRON BEACON-JOURNAL minimizes the results attained and remarks that "the great debate droned wearily on to its conclusion with little glory for any of the principals engaged." The RICHMOND NEWS-LEADER comments: "The form of the treaty that Mr. Stimson brought home is the best explanation of the size of the vote of ratification. Limited to three powers instead of applying to five, and authorizing almost as heavy construction as the jingoes had ever demanded, this treaty involves no sacrifice and arouses no animosities. A president who could not have won ratification for the three-power treaty might as well have abandoned all hope of even persuading the senate to pass a bill providing its own pay."

Skeleton Of Little Lucy, Shenango Steamer, Lies Imbedded In Sandy Grave

Many moons have dipped in the skies since Little Lucy, proud and seaworthy steamer, chugged her way blithely up and down the Shenango.

Hundreds of local citizens can remember the excursion trips from Pulaski to Nancy's Island aboard Little Lucy and her big sister, the Island Queen. They can remember the occasional trips down the river from Pulaski to New Castle. In those days the inhabitants of the county gazed admiringly at the pretty craft as it wended its ways up and down the stream.

She was several score yards in length and was propelled by a large paddle wheel at the rear. There was a cabin and smoke stack. She could carry a large load of passengers, and was on the river practically all of the time, carrying excursions to and from the station at Pulaski to the far-famed picnic resort—Nancy's Island.

But today her skeleton lies imbedded in the sands of an inlet stream which flows into the Shenango river near the Nashua bridge. Very little is left of Little Lucy—just part of the hull sticking up out of the sands—as if it is waving a last farewell.

Little Lucy met her Waterloo on a trip from Nancy's Island to New Castle. The river was high. A group of men boarded the steamer enroute to an opera in New Castle. All was well until the boat arrived at Nashua bridge. It arrived there but never passed. The smoke stack and cabin collided into the bridge because of the high water and the steamer slowly toppled over. The passengers were dumped into the Shenango and swam to shore. The captain stuck to the ship true to tradition until every passenger was off then he too made for shore.

Soon after the mishap the wrecked steamer was towed into the little inlet stream out of the way of the water traffic. And there it has stayed, all the time sinking, sinking, sinking. Today scarcely a water grave has Little Lucy as the little tributary is nearly dry.

But if the many moons have made dim the memory of the career of Little Lucy they have made other changes also.

Nancy's Island, once a bustling miniature Coney Island which attracted train-loads of all day picnickers from Pittsburgh and from Ohio, is now a forgotten and desolate spot. The Island Queen, the immense excursion boat that carried thousands over the two mile stretch between the island and Pulaski, was long ago removed from the Shenango and taken to the Great Lakes. And the river itself, once the scene of canoe rowboats, motor boats and steamers, is now quiet and navigable only in name.

Philadelphia Woman Charges Chicago Man With Being Bigamist

Father Now Involved In Baby Mixup Is Married To Philadelphia Girl Is Claim

Left For West, Met Chicago Woman Forgot About His Wife Back In East

Councillors Are Chosen For Camp

Plans Almost Completed For Two Weeks Camping Period For Girl Scouts

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, July 29.—William Watkins, father of one of the two babies involved in the identity mixup in Chicago is the legal mate of a Philadelphia woman according to a copyright interview appearing in the Daily News here today with a woman who claims to be the "Real Mrs. William Watkins."

Sitting at her home on North 15th Street, the former Annabel Van Stam, ex-cabaret entertainer, claimed Watkins, as her undivorced mate, according to the news reporter. If he has divorced her she doesn't know anything about it she said.

"I married him at the Church of Gesu here back in 1917 during the war," the woman said.

"I've never received any notice of his getting a divorce and I don't believe he has," she added.

According to the former dancer's story she met Watkins when a girl of 15. After a three month courtship they were married by Father Riley here on December 7, 1917.

Ordered To War.
After the ceremony we went to Atlantic City on our honeymoon and after that spent a few weeks with my parents," recited the young woman. "About that time he was ordered to camp Hancock and later went over seas."

"When he came back," she continued, "I found that he had been shell-shocked and gassed and he acted queerly at times. But I lived with him anyway and William, Jr., now 12, was born."

After a time they moved to Chester, 25 miles south of here, along the Delaware river, where Watkins obtained work on the Pennsylvania railroad," Mrs. Watkins said.

"Sometimes I thought that the shell-shock or gas had affected his mind," she continued. "He often struck our boy and sometimes threatened me. Finally when I couldn't stand it any longer I ran away but later we were reconciled and I came back."

Revealed By Son.
Later she again left her husband, the ex-cabaret dancer said. "And the baby was left with the elder Mrs. Watkins at Conshohocken. Watkins then left for the west according to the woman's story. But she denied any knowledge of his alleged subsequent marriage."

The first intimation she had that Watkins was living with another woman came last summer when he visited his parents here. He took their son back with him to Chicago and when "William" and at first I spoke of a "Marcel" and at first I didn't know what he meant. Later I learned that he was living with another woman supposed to be his wife," she said, "but I don't believe they are married."

Correct this sentence: "I'll marry when I find the right kind of girl," said he. "But I won't let one fool me."

Standard Brands, Inc., are making arrangements to occupy the new building recently completed for their use by the New Castle Lumber & Construction Co. at Mercer and Lawrence streets on Friday, August 1.

The building will be used as a distributing center for this section of the state, and will result in quite a few employees being centered in New Castle. The manager of the company has already moved here, and others will be brought here as soon as the new warehouse is opened.

While but a small industry, they expect to expand their facilities here in the future, provisions having been made for this event in their new quarters.

Dr. Mason Makes Farewell Sermon In Mercer Church

Was Army Chaplain In World And Spanish-American Wars

MERCER, Pa., July 29.—Dr. O. H. L. Mason for two years pastor of the Presbyterian church of Mercer preached his farewell sermon at the hour of morning worship Sunday.

Dr. Mason with his wife leaves this week for Long Beach cal., where he will make his permanent home.

The doctor came to the local church from the Van Nest Presbyterian church of New York. He retired after a pastorate of over a quarter of a century. He served as army chaplain in both the Spanish and World Wars and was an official spokesman for the government in the financial campaign to raise funds in the last war.

The pulpit committee of the church appointed at the time of the pastor's resignation in April, an- nounce that they will have candidates for the vacancy to preach during the month of August.

The first bequest left for the benefit of the Mercer Library is a sum of $1,000 left in trust by the terms of the will of the late Ella Morrison.

The income from the money goes to a friend during her life time and is then to be used in the purchase of books, other than fiction, for the library at her death.

Fifty years of wool buying and selling has failed to develop as dull a market as the present is the announcement of J. Z. Zahmiser of Mercer, who is the veteran for the state in a buyer of fine wools for a large Boston concern.

The oldest itinerant fishing club in Western Pennsylvania, the Solid Comforts of Mercer organized over 30 years ago will leave for their camp on the French river in the province of Ontario in Canada on July 30th.

There will be 60 in the party this year including that well known jurist of the United States Court of Appeals, Judge Joseph Buffington of Philadelphia.

The advance party of workmen in charge of Secretary Donald Christy of Washington, D. C., are already at the camp site preparing a welcome for the party which includes Mr. and Mrs. Harry Griffith, Alan Clifford, George Moreland, Monroe Thorp, Dr. and Mrs. Earl Vandergrift, E. B. Zimmerman, Edward Brietweiser, Parke Martin, Bert Wicks and Stanley P. Ashe of Pittsburgh.

From Mercer Mr. and Mrs. Dunham Barton, Mr. and Mrs. H. G. Jean and Gordon McClelland, Mrs. W. W. and Miss Julia Richardson, Edgar Ingraham, Wilson Cochran, Mrs. Walter and Julia Neuron.

Other guests include Mr. and Mrs. William Whittle and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Jones of Sharon, John Brandon, Dr. F. W. Waldron, Dr. J. M. Hazlet and son, R. E. Kirkpatrick, Roy Diefenderfer and Mr. Pillow of Butler, C. J. Kirk of New Castle, J. L. Frederick of Greenville, Warren Wright and W. D. McGinnis of Con- nelsville, C. E. Shirk of Harrisburg, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Henry, Parker Henry, J. M. and John McFarland of Marietta, Dr. E. L. McElvaine of Meadville, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Seaton and daughter of Zellenople.

Harry Yingling, Russell Elwood, E. B. Miller and H. J. Johnson will go from New Kensington.

Charles Russell of Meadville is held for the October court charged with operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. He was bound over following a hearing before Squire W. D. Reznor of Greenville, following his arrest on the main highway between Sharon and Greenville by State Trooper Harris.

Judge James Chambers of Lawrence county, the trial judge in the action of the Commonwealth against Charles McFeaters of Grove City, charged with fornication and bastardy, filed opinion today refusing him a new trial asked by his attorney, Ex-District Attorney L. R. Rickard, whose chief contention was the fact that the girl had died prefaceing the trial which took place in November of 1929, and that without her testimony the conviction returned by the jury was lacking in substantiation of evidence.

The court held in his opinion that the admission of the defendant to friends that he had been with the girl twice and failure to produce any evidence of other male companions led him to the refusal.

Sheriff Dan Callahan took Foster Swogger of Fredonia to Huntingdon today. He was sentenced to this institution for the theft of an automobile.

George Bradley, aged 22, of Sugar Grove township, was jailed today, charged with possession of liquor.

All possible speed is being made in the court house decoration being handled by the Andrews Company of Indiana.

If we could see Charles Augustus, Jr., put his foot in his mouth we'd know for sure whether he's just like other babies," remarks Chub De Wolfe in the Toledo Blade. Personally however, we don't expect ever to see a Lindbergh put his foot in his mouth.

PUSSEWILLOW THORNTON

By FRANK J. CIPRIANI
Central Press Staff Writer.

CHICAGO, July 29. — "Operator, please get me Ardmore 3072."
Ding-a-ling-a-ling-a-ling.
"Hello, is this Ardmore 3072?"
"Woof."
"What's that—is this Ardmore 3072?"

This is not an impossible conversation by any means. Simply call Ardmore 3072 if you happen to be in Chicago some time, and don't be surprised if the response on the other end of the wire sounds like "woof, woof," and a growling "g-r-r-r-r."

Ardmore 3072 is assigned to, and listed under the name of Pussiewillow Thornton, 1133 Bryn Mawr avenue. Pussiewillow, in case you have not guessed by this time, is a dog—a likeable, chummy sort of a bull who has the distinction of being personally listed, "animally speaking," in the city telephone directory. And so far as is known, she's the only member of the canine family owning a private telephone, publicly listed, in her name.

Pussiewillow belongs to Mrs. Bertha Stotts Thornton, of the Bryn Mawr avenue address.

Mrs. Thornton is a lover of animals, and a believer in the theory that animals—particularly dogs and cats—are quite as human as people. By that reasoning she feels that animals have a right to be listed in the telephone directory, and so far as Pussiewillow is concerned, she's correct.

Some years ago Mrs. Thornton's favorite pet was a cat, called Gutt, Cat Gutt, too, appeared in the telephone book, and even had a checking account in the First National bank. Out of this account, Mrs. Thornton deducted $3.50 a week for board. The bank fund was replenished from time to time with money earned by Mrs. Thornton from magazine stories which she wrote about Gutt.

But Gutt, like all cats, lacked that true sense of fidelity, and strayed away, and so Pussiewillow came into Mrs. Thornton's life.

Rare Autographs Discovered In Carolina Book

(International News Service)
ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 29.—Scores of autographs by hands that made and wrote history and charmed vast audiences in another day were contained in a book found in the bottom of an old trunk here.
On pages yellowed with age and covered with dust may be found signatures of Grover Cleveland and his wife; Edwin Booth, the actor; General James Longstreet of the Confederate army; Robert Lincoln, son of The Emancipator; Jefferson Davis, P. T. Barnum, Presidents Rutherford B. Hayes and Benjamin Harrison, Lillie Langtry, the actress; Oliver Wendell Holmes, the poet, and Harriet Beecher Stow, who created "Uncle Tom."

Almost like a roll call of the last half of the 19th century's notables, the book also reveals photographs of such worthies as Bob Ingersoll, Samuel Clemens (Mark Twain), General G. T. Beauregard of the Confederate army, Edward Everett Hale, Joseph Jefferson the actor, the Duke of New-castle, General Lew Wallace, who wrote Ben Hur, and Cyrus Field, who laid the first Atlantic cable.

The book was given by Mrs. William J. Meade to her brother, Ranny Hilton of Chicago, back in 1886. Hilton collected the autographs through the years and the book later came back into Mrs. Meade's possession after her brother's death. It is now a highly sought prize of bibliophiles.

5-Year-Old Boy Saves Tot's Life

SALT LAKE CITY, July 29.—If there are any hero medals for 5-year-old life savers, Calvin Morris of this city is a candidate for one of them. His rescue of a 4-year-old boy became known here today.

Passing a mill stream at Logan, Utah, where he was visiting last week with his parents, Calvin saw Bobbie Nielson fall into the water. He ran to the mill and gave the alarm and then hurried back to the stream where the younger child had been carried against a grating by the swift current.

Stooping over, he grasped Bobbie's arm and held on until help arrived. Just below the stream make a 30-foot drop.

What does the word "safari" mean? It is used to designate two related matters: either a journey into the wilds or the human caravan that makes the journey possible.

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

IS A CHILD, born of parents who have not been naturalized, a citizen of the United States?
If born in the United States, the child is an American citizen, according to the terms of the constitution.

Please explain what is meant by "national debt." To what foreign countries does the United States owe money?

The national debt, which amounts to slightly more than $16,000,000,000, is the designation for all the fixed liabilities of the United States government. This can be roughly divided into two items: the debt represented by outstanding bonds, amounting to $12,000,000,000; and the currency and coinage in circulation, together with the amount owed on thrift stamps, treasury stamps and a few other small items. The bonds were issued, of course to raise money for purposes that could not be met out of current revenue, mainly the World War. The item of currency and coinage is a liability or debt because the government must stand ready to make good the money used in commerce. The United States owes no money to any foreign government.

What is the German population of the United States? What cities have the largest German population?

The latest figures available on German population are those of the 1920 census, when 7,259,992 persons of German origin were listed. The cities having the largest German population ranked in the following order: New York, Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis and Philadelphia.

Has the United States or Germany the greater export trade? Does the export trade of any country exceed that of the United States?

Since the World War the United States has developed the greatest export trade in the world, leading Great Britain, the nearest competitor by more than $1,000,000,000 a year. However, the exports of all the units of the British empire are greater than those of the United States and its possessions.

What does the word "safari" mean? It is used to designate two related matters: either a journey into the wilds or the human caravan that makes the journey possible.

What is the "vinegar Bible"? It is the Oxford edition, published in 1767, in which the word vinegar appears instead of vineyard in Luke xxii.

(NOTE: The following pamphlets may be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin and a large stamped, self-addressed envelope for each, to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C.: "Who's Who in Hollywood," "Swimming," "Seeing Washington" and Charles P. Stewart's treatise on "Our Government.")

Travels 600 Miles In Day For Meetings

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, July 29.—In the heat of political campaign there are two reasons to take the air. One is to cool off. The other is afford yourself rapid transportation.

Harry Woodring of Neodesha, Democratic gubernatorial candidate for nomination, recently flew about in a plane to enable him to speak at three political meetings in a day. To attend the meetings, held at equally distant parts of Kansas, required 600 miles of travel.

Drug store loafers should go back to the alley. They're a vacant lot.

Foreign travel is exasperating. If you stay in your hotel you don't see enough, and if you go outside you smell too much.

Troop "F" Enjoying Boom In Interest; Roster Now Filled

Many years have passed since Troop F was first organized in this city and in the years some of the best citizens of the community have been members in the organization and have been developed into some of the community's leading men.

At the time of the World war, it will be remembered, its members became a part of the 28th division and covered themselves with glory. When they came back after having given their utmost to the defense of the national government, the troop was reorganized and for a time flourished. Later, interest seemed to wane for a short time and it passed out of existence as far as this city was concerned. The value of the organization was realized when it was too late to save the old organization, and a determined effort was made to have a new unit of the National Guard established here.

A new troop was organized here, but due to the fact that the people, while desirous of helping, did not see about it in just the right way, the community came near losing this organization.

New Personnel.

It so happened that officers and personnel with high ideals were selected and believing that the citizens here would support the organization if they knew what was wanted, they set to work with a will and in six months the troop has been reestablished in the nature of a revelation.

The troop will leave Friday for camp at Mount Gretna with a full complement of men for the first time in years. The troop goes with equipment provided by local supporters that has long been needed and will reflect credit on its members and the community while in camp. Knowing that it has some real support here, the troop goes to camp filled with confidence that will make it the best organization in its entire outfit.

It is the friendly attitude of the people of this community that has made the troop what it is, as well as the more concrete and tangible needs of the organization that have been taken care of by a group of interested citizens, that is bringing it to pass that young men of the highest type are actually fighting to get into the organization.

This is resulting in an organization that is a credit to itself, the community and the government and it is essential for the National Guard to be supported as, after all, the National Guard is important in supplying the national army in times of emergency with a complement of men that will meet the emergencies of a national crisis.

It must also be remembered that the ideals that actuate the C. M. T. C. are the same that make the National Guard, as it now exists here and throughout the nation, an outstanding group of citizens.

Cooling Breezes Bring Relief To Sweltering Nation

Pennsylvania Swept By Cooling Breezes Today Which Chases Intense Heat Wave

MERCURY DUE TO TUMBLE FURTHER

(International News Service)
Cooling breezes swept over Pennsylvania today and brought to an end the long suffering of residents caused by the intense heat wave of the last few days.
Thundershowers, weather bureau officials state, are expected late today or tonight to bring even cooler temperatures. Forecasts said that chill winds from the north, now sweeping over the Middle West, were on their way Eastward and would cause the mercury to drop still farther.
Yesterday's 96 degree mark in Pittsburgh equalled the all time record for July 23, established in 1901.

Hospital Staff Being Sued For Mixing Of Babies

Suits Filed Against Every Doctor And Nurse In Chicago Hospital

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, July 29.—Legal history was to be written here today when a suit alleging "lost identity" is filed against every doctor and nurse on the staff of Englewood hospital, where the famous Watkins-Bamberger baby mixup began.
The suit is for $100,000 and the plaintiff is one of the confused babies who will sue under the name of "John Doe." The action is being pressed by William Watkins, whose wife brought "John Doe" home from the hospital presumably as her own child.

When the trial starts, it is probable that the results of scientists' examinations of the babies and the parents will be introduced. These results, according to Health Commissioner Arnold Kegel, will convince Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bamberger, if they will study them, that they have the infant really born to Mrs. Watkins.
The Bambergers are satisfied, however, with the child they drew.

LETTERS TO THE NEWS

Letters intended for this column must be signed with name and address of writer.

Arthur Stirling, formerly of this city and now in Clarksville, Ark., describes conditions in Arkansas. His letter follows:

New Castle News, July 29, 1930, New Castle, Pa.

Sirs: If you find this letter (goofy) well it's not home made brew but the weather. Hot? Say, I thought I had seen some hot days at home there in New Castle, but now I know what 120 is like and dry. We have not had a drop of rain in seven weeks. Cotton and corn are a total loss.

Last winter was the coldest winter they have had here in 59 years and that froze out this year's peach crop and—well, if you don't get anything out of peaches, cotton or corn it's just too bad, that's all. It is a mighty pretty country here in the Ozarks with good fishing all up and down the Arkansas river and in lots of the mountain streams. There is good hunting, good roads and good people, in fact everything one sees here is good except (???)

Well, what I know how it is after any one has lived for years in western Pennsylvania where we see men and women hurrying along the streets in the morning to get to their jobs and where again in the eve we see them dressed and out to see a movie or to the parks—and say, if these people out here ever saw that rush on Washington street any Saturday evening and see the mob that is in any one of your local banks on Saturday evening they would just pass out, that's all.

Well, what I was going to say was that I rather got used to saying that the parks—and say, if these people out here ever saw that rush on Washington street any Saturday evening and see the mob that is in any one of your local banks on Saturday evening they would just pass out, that's all.

If you can recall I sent you some stuff from Goose Creek, Texas, last January, and I left there before I ever received an answer from you. Let me know what you ever did with that stuff. I am now in Clarksville, the county seat of Johnson county. I have been here about four months.

It is a coal mining town but they only run about six months a year. Next comes lumber, lots of pine and oak timber, and the roads are well spotted with small mills making barrel staves. Next comes peaches, then cotton, then corn. It has been a bad year for all these crops and two old banks closed here within three months.

One thing that they seem to have plenty of here in the Ozarks is colleges. Every town has one or more colleges, and say, maybe you had better stop up your ears as you read this next line and that's about melons—and what melons. One hundred pounds is a small melon. They run from 120 to 140 pounds each. If it were not for them we could not stand this heat.

Gee but it sure would be a great treat to take a walk down Neshanock avenue this evening and feel that wonderful cool air that you get off the hill and river. While you think of it pick up your phone and call the Pennzoil company, 228 South Jefferson street, and tell any one of the boys that Hawdy would like to hear from them and that I may see them early in September and for heaven sake send me The News.

Yours truly,
VICTOR STIRLING,

Stribling Will Battle Campolo

Stribling And Campolo Will Battle In Madison Square Garden In September

By HYPE IGOE
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 29.—Frank Bruen, general manager of Madison Square Garden, had a little telephone conversation last night that set Madison Square Garden Corporation back $100, but it was worth while.

Bruen landed a corking match for his shebang, Stribling and Campolo for September.

Bruen talked to both the Striblings, "Bill and Pa," shortly after the Georgia peach had knocked out Phil Scott in two rounds.

"It was $100 well spent," said Bruen afterward. "We have been looking for the right man for Campolo."

"I'm glad the boy won. He rather settled the hash of Mr. Scott, didn't he?"

And so it would seem. And fancy the daring of Stribling. He knocked Scott out with a body blow in the second and floored him the first two times in the opening round with lefts to the body.

Phil didn't make a single squawk about low punches. They came so fast and furiously that he didn't have much of a chance. Stribling ripped two lefts into Scott's body right off the reel, and both times Phil was downed for counts of nine.

WAY, WAY DOWN!

Those Russian Communists are dumb if they are sincere in their belief that Communism can succeed. They have a free foot in Russia for their experiment, where they could prove its worth if it has any merit. And if successful there, nothing under heaven could keep it from spreading out naturally. You can't kill a good idea.

You can tell when money is scarce. People stop buying so many necessities.

Red Cross Plans Examination For Life Saving Corps

Instruction And Tests Will Be Given By Examiners And Instructors Soon

Plans for a county-wide instruction course in Red Cross Life Saving methods, followed by an examination for admittance to the Senior Life Saving corps, is planned by the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, in the near future.

Instruction given under the Red Cross course enables those who have passed the examination to instruct others, and in addition gives them complete knowledge of the best methods to use in taking a drowning person from the water, and how to break holds secured by drowning people.

The latter phase of the instruction is especially important as many expert swimmers are dragged to their death by drowning victims, because they do not know how to release themselves.

The examining corps of the Red Cross is headed by Jack Herbert and Jack Hulme, special examiners, who are two of the most outstanding swimmers in this section of the state.

Other examiners and instructors in the Lawrence County Chapter's Life Saving corps are Paul E. Berry, David M. Boyd, Emmett W. Gillaspie, Donald Gillespie, Charles R. Gillum, Herbert G. Horton, William L. Klee, John A. McCandless, and Sara E. McGoun.

Ohio City Satisfied That Public Business Can Show Efficiency

IN 1906 LINCOLN STEFFEN CALLED CINCINNATI THE "WORST GOVERNED CITY IN AMERICA."

By HOWARD P. JONES
Central Press Staff Writer
CINCINNATI, O., July 29.—Envious eyes are being turned toward Cincinnati these days by cities throughout the country.

Resignation of Col. C. O. Sherrill as city manager and the appointment of Charles A. Dykstra, formerly director of personnel and efficiency of the Los Angeles water and power department, and professor of government at the University of California at Los Angeles, has focused attention on the remarkable record of efficiency in government chalked up in the last few years by this Ohio city.

It was in 1906 that Lincoln Steffens called Cincinnati the "worst governed city in America." Up to 1925, if we except a few rare years, citizens here would have accepted the appellation without challenge. But no longer!

"Best Governed City"
"The best governed city in America" is Cincinnati's new slogan. What happened?

In a word, an aroused citizenry turned the rascals out and put in a business-like administration.

The story can be told in terms of two men and two ideas. The two men are City Manager Sherrill and Henry Bentley, chairman of the city charter committee. The two ideas are the city manager plan and a non-partisan citizen's organization to back it up.

Few cities can get good men to run for public office—they don't want to get mixed up in "politics."

In Cincinnati, leading citizens are practically drafted for public service. It works this way. Bentley or some member of the city charter committee, calls upon a citizen who has been agreed upon as a desirable candidate. He explains that there are no obligations, political or otherwise involved. The charter group will run the candidate's campaign for him—he will hardly have to lift a finger. Entrance into public office is thus made easy for good men.

But just what has been accomplished since 1925 by this business administration?

Cincinnati is a city reborn.

A New City
A visitor hardly recognizes in the new Cincinnati the down-in-the-hell city of a few years ago. Millions have been spent for public improvements—the entire physical appearance of the city has been transformed. Yet citizens pay less taxes than before, and the bonded indebtedness is being constantly reduced!

In 1925, the year Cincinnati voted to adopt the city manager form of government, the city tax rate was $9.83 per thousand dollars valuation. This year the rate is $8.86. The bonded debt has been reduced the same period of time more than $2,500,000. So startling is the record that the city charter committee campaigns on the slogan "more to show for it and less to owe for it."

But let former Mayor Murray Seasongood, in whose administration these things were accomplished, tell it.

"Four years ago the streets of Cincinnati were in despair to the point of scandal. The city manager first devised an economical method for patching the holes in the streets until new pavements could be built. Then a vigorous program of reconstruction was inaugurated, and more miles of new street pavements were put down in three years than in the previous ten!"

More For Less
In street repair work, the annual amount of such work is three times what it was under the old regime and seven per cent higher wages are paid, but the total cost is less per year than before.

"Under the old regime, there were almost no street signs anywhere. The government was contemplating an expenditure for signs at the rate of $48 for each intersection but gave up the idea because the contemplated appropriation of $50,000 was so slight in proportion to the need of signs that the city fathers felt there would only be a great deal of complaint from streets not favored and the need would not be met. The new administration spent the $50,000 on signs that cost $5 apiece, which are good looking and was able to cover the entire city and have a little money left over!"

In 1925 the city granted an improvement franchise to the electric light company. The new administration was able to show that the contract was so extravagant that the new council repealed the ordinance. A new contract was put through which saves the citizen's approximately $600,000 a year on a rising scale that will ultimately reach $750,000."

Cincinnati is Proud
The same story is told throughout the administration. To take another example, in 1925 the assessment for street oiling was $5.75 for a 50 foot lot. Three years later, the assessment on the same lot was 97 cents.

And Cincinnati is proud. It has proved that public business can be run as efficiently as private business. There is no sex equality in a fight. There are some things a gentleman can't say.

Professor Enjoys Chauffeur Cab

(International News Service)
ATLANTA, Ga., July 29.—Taxi cab passengers in Atlanta may now be regaled with discussions of the binominal theorem or the abnormal psychology of Neanderthal man as their meter clicks merrily away. All because Atlanta college students and teachers have taken up cab driving as a remunerative method of spending their summer vacation. Take for instance, the driver of Cab No. 144. He is Professor W. I. Axtel, A. B., a teacher at Tech High School. "I like cab driving," Professor Axtel said as he sat at the wheel of his cab. "Not because of the exercise, but also because of the detached contacts with people it brings about." S. M. Barrell, J. H. Lewis and J. F. Palmer all Georgia Tech '32, express like opinions. The cab company is equally satisfied. A. G. Henly, director of safety and in charge of personnel said: "We like polite drivers and those who use intelligence in driving. I hope other drivers follow the example set by these college men."

"Gasoline Hobo" Latest Type Of Dependent

(International News Service)
DENVER, July 29.—Lack of cash is the least obstacle in the way of a vacation in the Rockies, according to officials of Denver social aid bureaus who report a new type of traveling dependent who in recent months has added his story of woe to the score of others that the aid stations are forced to investigate daily. The latest social problem is the "gasoline hobo" who drives the family car on regular western excursions and makes a policy of stopping at all relief centers and asking nothing less than gasoline, lodgings, clothes, cash, and, in some cases, car repairs. The Farm Board's plan is all right, except that you can't pay one kid a dime to keep quiet without inviting a horde of noisy brats.

Bathing Beaches Ellwood's Hobby 'Mid Summer Heat

All Ellwood Turns Out For Bathing At Beaches, Pool And Swimming Hole

ELLWOOD CITY, July 29.—Kids—big and little, fat and thin, tall and short, young and old are making these torrid days an excuse for getting into the swim.

While hundreds assemble on the new boardwalk at VanGorder's Mills, parading up and down in true Palm Beach manner in their modish suits of sun tan cut, others show their agility in the water with fancy jack-knife dives, swan dives etc. Crowds are attracted to this beach daily, and noticed among the guests Sunday were two large parties from Pittsburgh. Here we find two diving boards and a big raft, where people from Beaver Falls, New Brighton, Koppel, Youngstown, New Castle and Ellwood enjoy their water sports in the center of the stage where nature has provided a perfect setting with its cool green hills gently lifting to the blue heavens, amid a tangled cluster of flowers and fern, and trees to which ivy clings tightly.

Down the Slippery Rock creek a little way, in a spot no less beautiful many bathers can be noticed each evening. Here they can swim and dive, in more exclusiveness, and here cabins are stationed for the privacy demanded for changing clothes.

While there is much ado about smart bathing suits among the bathers who frequent these modernized beaches, a number of weak kiddles don "just any old cast of bathing suit that might have been outgrown by big brother Willie" and racing down the hill from their home on the farm can be seen making a great splash as they tumble into the "old swimmin' hole" near by the Harmony tracks at Wayne stop.

Never were children happier than the carefree boys that come here each day, with never a thought of a modish fitting bathing suit with lots of opportunity for sun burn. What a glorious time have Billy Cole, Charles and Bud Johns as they dive under and catch their chums by the toes, it possibly they find more fun—just splashing and ducing.

These same little boys would probably scorn a spiffy bathing suit and in turn how many of the moderns bathing in the other places mentioned would enjoy a dive into the old swimmin' hole at Wayne stop?

Among nature there are children in Ellwood who not given this opportunity but are taking advantage of every opportunity to learn to swim and are taking lessons from the life-guard Fred Roebuck at Shelby pool.

Woman Falls Off Raft, Is Rescued

ELLWOOD CITY, July 29.—Mrs. Lucy Whitaker of Knoxville, near Pittsburgh, was resting on the raft at VanGorder's Mills Sunday, when it tipped and she fell into the water. Unable to swim she was about to go down the second time when the life guard, John B. Wilson saved her. After the accident Mrs. Whitaker proved that she was none the worse for the narrow escape, by enjoying another dip before leaving for her home.

HIS JOB
ELLWOOD CITY, July 29.—Eleven year old Harold Honnifer of Pittsburgh Circle has a new job, and woe be the person who tries to help him forget it. Each morning Harold can be seen raising the American flag in the Legion Memorial park, just as the sun creeps into sight and again at night, he is back to lower the emblem, which he folds carefully and takes home. Harold will take care of the flag during the absence of Junior Stevenson who is camping at Spruce Creek.

FIRST PHOTO OF QUAKE RUINS

Rushed by fast trains and planes to London this picture, radioed to New York, is the first to reach the United States showing the ruins caused by the recent earthquake which shook the lower half of the Italian peninsula. ## Ellwood Endurance Records Made On Painter's Scaffold

ELLWOOD CITY, July 29.—We are not certain that any endurance records have been made in Ellwood, but at least something is being accomplished when Mr. Smith and Mr. Jones get up on their scaffolds each night after a hot day in the mill and continue painting their own houses.

According to paint salesmen in Ellwood City, much more paint has been sold to house owners, who are doing their own jobs, than to regular house painters.

What could be cooler after a long hot day in one of the big furnace rooms in the mill, than to sit high up—high as the tree tops with no leaves and branches to interfere with the zephyr breezes to cool the heated brow.

Mr. Smith (who cares not to have his real name printed) claims that he "always did have a hankerin' to paint pictures on a canvas, and then fate and an early marriage changed all dreams into reality and a hot mill".

Painting his own house and making it look like something, is the next thing to realizing his dream which he has carried with him through the years.

FRANCES REUNION
ELLWOOD CITY, July 29.—Announcement has been made of the annual Frances reunion which will be conducted at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dunbar of Riverview stop, Thursday, August 7.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Clark Jr. of the Ellwood-New Castle road are spending several days in Canada before going to the sanitarium at East Aurora, N. Y., for a rest.

From the beautiful city of Naples to "the toe of the boot," the most southern tip of Italy is the scene of death and destruction as the result of the earthquake. The death toll has been set at more than 3,000 while many thousands are hurt and left homeless. The map shows the principal towns in the devastated area.

Local Kiwanians Are Guests At Dick Vectors Camp

A diversified program was presented around the campfire by the campers, which included a dramatization of "The Motive" which developed into a tumbling act. Group singing was another feature greatly enjoyed by the men.

G. Blaine Hancher, president of the club announced at the meeting that a good delegation was desired from Ellwood to attend the state convention at Erie, August 21 to 24 inclusive.

At the next meeting, Monday night, the Kiwanians will entertain the Pirate Baseball team of Pittsburgh, which is scheduled to play here in the afternoon.

20. The Puritans—Dutch And English On The Connecticut

(Copyright, 1930, by J. Carroll Mansfield)

IN 1633 BOTH THE DUTCH AND ENGLISH WERE CLAIMING THE CONNECTICUT VALLEY WHICH LAY BETWEEN THEIR SETTLEMENTS. EACH WISHED TO POSSESS THE CONNECTICUT RIVER BECAUSE IT GAVE THEIR FUR TRADERS ACCESS TO THE HEART OF THE INDIAN COUNTRY.

HOPING TO HOLD THE CONNECTICUT VALLEY, THE DUTCH PLANTED A SMALL FORT NEAR THE SITE OF HARTFORD. THE ENGLISH, HOWEVER, REFUSED TO RECOGNIZE THE DUTCH CLAIM AND WENT ON TRADING UP THE RIVER.

IN 1635, JOHN WINTHROP, JR., SON OF THE FOUNDER OF BOSTON, ACTING AS AGENT FOR TWO PURITAN NOBLEMEN (LORDS SAYE AND BROOKE) BUILT A FORT AT THE MOUTH OF THE CONNECTICUT.

YOUNG STRIBLING KNOCKS OUT SCOTT

English Man Is Floored Plenty

William Stribling Causes Surprise By Quick Kayo Of Phil Scott

BOUT IS FOUGHT IN LONDON MONDAY

(International News Service)
LONDON, July 29.—Phil Scott's dismal showing against William L. "Young" Stribling at Wimbledon Stadium last night brought an avalanche of criticism upon his head from the British press and boxing circles today.

Knocked out in five minutes and 45 seconds from the time the bell rang the first round, the big lumbering British fireman crashed to the canvas four times in the first round, staying twice for the count of nine, once for the count of eight and once for five counts. A terrific left to the stomach in the second round ended the fight.

Reviewing the one-sided battle witnessed by 30,000 fans—the largest crowd ever to see a British boxing event—boxing critics in the leading papers today played Scott mercilessly for his failure to produce at least a satisfactory showing.

The press variously termed Scott's efforts as "dismal," "dreadful" and "inert."

There was a general feeling that Scott's fighting days ceased with the count of ten last night, the reviewers stressing the fact that the public never could enthuse over "Painting" Phil even when he won.

Stribling, through his victory over Scott, earned the right to challenge Max Schmeling for the world's heavyweight championship. He entered the ring weighing 18 pounds less than Scott. He was seldom hit by Scott, who fought clumsily and who appeared more like a clown than a real fighter.

Stribling's blows were accurate, well calculated and telling. He never, however, was forced to extend himself greatly and found opposition in the first few moments of fighting only.

Willie Stribling made short work of Phil Scott of England last night at London. Stribling put him down four times in the first round and the bell saved Phil. A left hook to the stomach in the second round sent the Briton down a fifth time and he was counted out.

Before the fight which was billed for the "heavyweight championship of the world," Stribling announced that he would claim the title should he win from the Englishman. Stribling has been going good during the past few months. It hasn't been long since he kayoed Otto Von Porat.

Cheaper Type Of Road Is Planned In Pennsylvania

Secondary Roads On State Highway System Will Receive Macadam Treatment

APPROXIMATELY 3,000 MILES ARE UNIMPROVED

Present Contracts Will Complete Last Links In Primary System In State

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 29.—Completion of the improvement of the remaining dirt roads on the State Highway system with an increased mileage of cheaper type construction is a course which probably will be followed in the future. It is estimated that the remaining unimproved roads on the system after the present biennium closes next spring will approximate 3,000 miles.

With contracts in force at present the last link in the primary system is being surfaced with concrete pavement. Projects gotten under way during the present administration also provided for improving many important sections of connecting and auxiliary routes.

After the big construction as sponsored by the Fisher administration has been completed there will remain about 3,000 miles of dirt and gravel road on the system. Most of this is through less densely populated sections of the state.

Would Hasten Work
In order to hasten the surfacing of the entire remaining 3,000 miles of dirt road the department will probably plan to improve them with macadam pavement instead of concrete. This will permit a greater mileage to be laid in a year and give the State a surfaced highway system of approximately 14,000 miles sooner than if only the more expensive type of surface were laid down in these more sparsely settled sections.

The department's replacement program is unlikely to be curtailed in any manner if the cheaper type of road surface is decided upon. Each year sections of important roads which have been improved for years must be rebuilt and made wider to accommodate present day traffic needs. The replacement mileage each year is about 250 miles.

Evidence that the department is changing its policy toward the improvement of these back roads is borne out in lettings this year. There has been an increased mileage in contract awards for macadam surface in 1930 over previous construction seasons.

Mileage Increase
Since the last legislature gave boards of county commissioners an opportunity to express what road sections they preferred to have improved and also the type of pavement to be used there has been an increase in the mileage of macadam highway contracts let.

With prospects bright for surfacing the entire highway system within a few years it is likely that the 1931 legislature may decide upon an increase in mileage. This step is considered more important than have the State assume the entire responsibility for the entire township road system of more than 70,000 miles as has been suggested.

In recent years the legislature has added more than 2,000 miles of road to the system. The legislature in 1927 placed over 1,000 miles under the jurisdiction of the department. An addition of probably 1,000 more miles would hardly impose any great hardship on the department since the system may be entirely surfaced by the end of the next administration.

Boards of supervisors have been requested by the department to determine primary and secondary township roads. This is being done with a view of better determining what roads should be added to the State system as future acquisitions are authorized.

Car Hits Truck Slight Damage

Slippery condition of tracks at Atlantic avenue and West Washington street Monday evening, resulting after a truck slid on the tracks, is believed to have been the cause of a collision of a street car into the rear of a truck.

A. Nussbaum of Cleveland, O., whose local address is the Leslie hotel, reported to police he was driving east on West Washington street and had stopped at the red light at Atlantic avenue. A trolley traveling east failed to stop in time and rammed into the rear of the truck. No one was injured. The driver of the street car was William Bogan. The rear of the truck was damaged.

The truck is believed to have skidded on the tracks before stopping. Although the brakes of the trolley worked efficiently, the condition of the tracks is believed to have been the result of the collision, railway officials say.

Heeney-Griffiths To Battle Tonight

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, July 29.—Tom Heeney of New Zealand will make a bid for renewed recognition in the heavy-weight ranks tonight when he meets Tuffy Griffiths, hard-hitting mid-western boxer, in a ten-round bout. Heeney, who is making his first ring appearance in almost a year, hopes to win and then challenge Jack Sharkey or Max Baer. New Yorkers, however, held Griffiths a three to one favorite over Heeney.

The Industrial teams were in action last night as follows: The Lockeys Machines kept their place at the top of the league by downing the Lehigh Cement team, 7 to 4, at the Lehigh field. It was the fine work of young Nickie Ross that gave the Lockeys their victory, this sensational left fielder of the Lockeys smashing out the home run in the ninth to score three runs for his team, the ball sailing over Melder's head. It was quite an upset for the champions. Rodgers pitched good ball to best Rich in the nine-inning argument. The Cheviens came to life and beat the Shenango Tin Mill at Washington field, 5 to 3. Cannon was on the knoll for the Cheviens. Glitch featured with a home run drive. The Penn-Ohio lost to the Engineering Works, 5 to 2, while the Bell Phones were tipped by the Radiator Works, 7 to 0.

Tonight the Mercantile teams battle as follows: News Slugs vs. Bankers at Washington field; Pearce & Bartsch vs. Wampum at Lehigh field; Spencers vs. Phalanx at Tin Mill field; Firemen vs. Haney at Radiator field.

Wednesday night the News Slugs will meet the Firemen at Lehigh field in a postponed game. The Bankers will likely play the Spencers at the Radiator field the same night, it was announced today.

The Bankers and Spencers will not play on Wednesday night it was announced today. Instead the Spencers tangle with the Phalanx team possibly at the Tin Mill field. If the Phalanx beat the Spencers then the Bankers will be the champions. If the Spencers win they must play the Bankers for the title.

The Firemen will play a double header with the News Slugs and Haney tomorrow night at the Lehigh field. The first game, that with the News Slugs will start at 6 o'clock it was announced.

Feeble Upturn In Stock Price

Utility And Specialties Lead Stocks Today In Feeble Upturn Of Market

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, July 29.—The utility stocks and the specialties were the leaders today in a feeble upturn of prices, which was not generally shared in by other sections of the market.

In the first two hours the volume of trading was smaller by 45 per cent than in the same period yesterday, and speculative interest was largely centered in a small number of the favorites.

A 6-point drop in Southern Railway to 89, consequent on the continued decline in net income of the railroad systems as a whole, unsettled the rail stocks, and weakness spread to a number of the best grade dividend shares. Atchafalpa fell off 5 points to 215 3/4; Southern Pacific was down about 2 points; New York Central down 1 at 164 1/2; Chesapeake and Ohio down 2 at 188 and Pennsylvania down 1. Union Pacific lost 4 points at 217.

General Motors and Dupont pushed ahead aggressively in the forenoon. Dupont reaching a new high on the move at 117 3/4, up 3. Standard Gas led the utilities a 2-point rise to 102 1/2, and slightly higher prices were quoted for Electric Power and Light.

National Power, North American and American and Foreign Power.

St. Mary's Girl Scouts Have Last Meeting Of The Summer

Sixteen Girl Scouts of St. Mary's school were invested as full fledged Girl Scout, Monday evening, at a meeting in the garden of the home of Mrs. William Howley, Shenango Street.

All those who attended the meeting have passed their ten-foot tests. There are more members of the troop but a number are out of the city during the school vacation period.

Mrs. Harry Wettich and Miss Louise McGonigle are the leaders of the troop.

There will be no more meetings of the St. Mary's troop until fall. Up to this week, the meetings have been held regularly every week.

Civic Clubs Enter Fair Relay Race

Annual Event Under Association's Auspices Listed Again This Year

A relay in which runners bearing the colors of different civic organizations, granges and other clubs of the county will take part, is planned as a feature for the three-day New Castle Fair which opens Tuesday, August 5. The association has sponsored the races for several years.

Four contestants from each club in the county are eligible to enter, each running one-eighth of a mile carrying the token to be received by the other contestants of the club.

To the winning team will be presented a silver cup, and the club winning the cup three times gets possession of it. In 1929 the cup was won by the Pomona grange.

Monday Afternoon
Cement paving versus brick paving—T type rail versus the grooved rail.

These railway construction problems loomed foremost in the minds of street railway technicians who yesterday afternoon testified for the plaintiff in the trial of the injunction proceedings against the city of New Castle and Woods and Golder Construction company by Pittsburgh, Harmony, Butler and New Castle Fairly, Inc.

At the request of White, Fritsch named the communities where the T rail is used by the West Penn line. Fritsch named 17 places, including Greensburg, Irwin, Jeannette, Uniontown, Tarentum, New Kensington, Ford City, and Scottsdale.

Fritsch, when questioned by White, admitted that his company has not been permitted to place T rails in McKeesport, Versailles and Duquesne.

Five witnesses called by J. Norman Martin, counsel for the railways before court was adjourned yesterday by Judge James A. Chambers.

Before court was adjourned, City Solicitor R. M. White made a motion that the injunction proceedings against the city be quashed. He presented five reasons why the motion should be granted, the principal being:

"That it appears from the evidence of the plaintiff that the plaintiff contracted with the city of New Castle, permitting the latter at any time to tear up, remove or interfere with the plaintiff's railways, insofar that it was necessary to make an improvement."

The court announced that arguments on White's request were to be heard when the hearing came up again this morning.

Those who completed testimony yesterday afternoon were Harry Etheridge, superintendent of the Harmony line; W. E. Moore, of Pittsburgh railway consulting engineer; J. L. Fritsch, chief engineer of the West Penn Railway company; Thomas A. Gilkey, of New Castle, president of the Thomas A. Gilkey company, civil engineers; Frank F. Miller, city engineer.

Etheridge, who had been the plaintiff's witness since morning, continued to answer questions of counsel of both sides when court was opened in the afternoon. Questioned by White, the railways superintendent said he had been connected with the Harmony line since 1906. He declared that as far as he was aware, cement had come in use for paving between tracks as early as in 1915, during the automobile rise to popularity.

The witnesses stated that concrete makes a "hard" tracks, which ultimately increases noises, sets up jars, and proves costly to the railways company, while brick construction eliminates noises, and because of the resiliency in the track bed as a result of the "soft" construction and because it is convenient for construction purposes to the company, it has been advocated by him.

He testified that "hard" or paved track beds were known to cause traffic accidents because bolts and axles sometimes broke when subjected to the continuous jars. When asked by White if he knew of any accidents caused by cement-paved roadways, the witness declared he had heard of cases, but could not give specific instances.

W. E. Moore, the second witness called by Harmony line counsel, former vice-president and general manager of the West Penn Power company, declared that brick paving has special advantages over "hard" construction. These advantages, he said, include drainage of water collected about the tracks during rains, and that it reduces noises. A solid, cement-paved roadway, he said, makes tracks so rigid that jars are known to occur as a result.

Questioned by City Solicitor White, the witness admitted, however, that the best brick paving is laid on a cement foundation. Moore said he did not know of a single railway company that had had satisfactory service with concrete paving. Moore added he believed that the noises on a cement bed was three to one to that of a brick bed, but said he had no means of measuring the noises to prove his assertion.

The most interesting witness on the stand Monday was J. L. Fritsch of the West Penn Railways company. An engineer of 25 years' experience, he outlined the history of the cement-construction roadways and the types of rails used by American railways. Questioned by J. Norman Martin as to whether the West Penn line was an advocate of cement paving he said:

"In the majority of places we have kept brick in place of the cement because of the pressure exerted by municipal authorities, but we don't think that in paving we have done a good job. We don't know how long the cement will last."

He gave a detailed account of the history of rails used in construction of street railways since 1902. The T type rail, he declared, has been found by railways engineers throughout the country to be better and far safer than the tribo, or as it is better known, the grooved rail. He said the grooved rail collected dirt and endangered passengers in street cars, while the A type rail has stood the test for years. In announcing himself a proponent of the use of the T rail, the engineers said that it was safer because it did not wear away as quickly as the grooved rail. He added that the grooved rail cut automobile tires because the outside of the steel has been known to be so hard.

At the request of White, Fritsch named the communities where the T rail is used by the West Penn line. Fritsch named 17 places, including Greensburg, Irwin, Jeannette, Uniontown, Tarentum, New Kensington, Ford City, and Scottsdale.

ARGUMENT DONE, COURT TO RULE ON INJUNCTION

the course of his argument that the injunction be continued and made permanent, said that witnesses had shown that the paving should not and did not need to be replaced.

That as far as that was concerned, the company did not object to the city going as far as it liked in the matter of paving the balance of the street just so that it did pave between the tracks.

The city, he said had no right to insist on making the changes in so far as it concerned the property of the company. He said that it was not a matter, so much, with the company of expense, as it amounted to the destruction of their property to make the changes proposed.

The company, he said, under its franchise had the right to operate on Butler avenue and that under its franchise from the state was a common carrier and could not and must not be interfered with in the carrying out the provisions of its franchise.

He contended that it was not a matter for the city to determine the necessity of the improvements and he further contended that due to the wealth was paying for the work on the street under the provisions of an act of assembly, which he contended was unconstitutional, that the action of the city was exceeding its rights and powers under the agreement by which the company operates its lines in this city.

White Replies
Quoting extensively from decisions in the supreme court relative to similar cases occurring in the city of Philadelphia, City Solicitor R. M. White waxed eloquent in his plea to the court that the injunction action be quashed.

He said that the Supreme court had ruled that one of the duties of a railway was to keep abreast of the times and that when there were improved methods of paving that it must of necessity keep up with that trend.

Solicitor White said "The city has as much right to tell a corporation to improve the streets through which it operates, as it has to tell the citizens of any street, that they must improve their streets at their expense in order to keep up with the modern trend."

The state has delegated to the city the operation and control of its streets. There is no divided authority in the matter."

"The Supreme court has ruled that in the Philadelphia company case that the city had the right to exercise the right to stop the operation of street cars in making an improvement and we have the right under our contract with the Harmony company to say that it forfeits its rights to operate on our streets, if it does not comply with the improvements asked. It is not up to any jury to say when this is necessary. This is the city's street and the Pittsburgh, Harmony, Butler and New Castle Fairly, Inc. operates on it only by license granted by the city and the conditions, which it is not trying to live up to."

Martin Answers
Attorney Martin said in reply that the company was trying to live up to its agreement but the city was imposing a burden that the ordinance did not stipulate, that it made no claim to owning the street but was trying to operate in good faith and keep its agreement.

MAYOR USES OWN MONEY TO PAY PATROLMEN

(International News Service) KANSAS CITY, July 29—Mayor Smith is one of those who cannot endure financial distress.

This was evident here today following the mayor's loan of money from his own pocket to seven members of the police force in financial difficulties. A struggle is still on here as Mayor Smith's political helpers insist upon detaining patrolmen's salary payments.

CAR MAKES SIXTY; MAN PAYS FINE

(International News Service) FORT WORTH, July 29—A man called into police court here to answer charges of speeding, contended his machine would not make 45 miles an hour.

"I'll drive your car myself and if it hits 45, you pay double. If not, I'll dismiss the case," the judge posed. The man's auto clipped off a speedy gait of 60 miles an hour with the judge at the wheel, the victim at his side and a motorcycle cop following alongside on his bike to test the speed.

The man paid the $20 fine without comment.

TELEPHONE OPERATOR SAVES SUBURB

(International News Service) PHILADELPHIA, July 29—Miss Vivian Quigley, of Bally, a little telephone operator, today is being proclaimed a heroine again.

Miss Quigley, possessor of a gold medal for honorable and immediate service, recently rescued the village of Barto, a suburb from the ravages of fire, which managed to burn four structures and cause $300,000 damage.

People who contribute to causes are like salt. Salt is much easier to shake down if it's dry.

Bo Broadway

By Central Press

NEW YORK, July 29—A Madison Avenue art dealer was talking. "I am acquainted," he said, "with a dozen women in New York who, collectively, have spent a couple of million dollars on antiques. But there isn't one of them who permits her hobby to carry her to the point where she's wear last month's frock."

THAT'S ENOUGH

Bill Lengle, one of Heart's first-string, magazine editorial geniuses, was discussing the qualities of a certain prolific contributor to the Literary Tripe Stall.

"I agree with you," said Bill, "that perhaps he doesn't write well. His supreme gift, however, lies in the fact that he writes interestingly—often!"

TRUCK KNIGHTS PASS

The old-time truck driver whose gladiatorial proportions and verbal virtuosity filled eye and ear, imparting picturesque to the city highways, has been sliding out of the picture in the last few years and in a short time will be practically extinct.

He had his "best girls" name you may recall ornately wrought in gold leaf on the prow of his vehicle, a poetic arm's-length above the whiffletree.

"Sidel," "May" or "Sue" was lettered across the dashboard as, once upon a time, knights tied to their lances the ribbons of the women they loved, and for whom they did battle in the lists.

The refinements of the modern 10-ton motor truck with its pastel tints and mechanical gimmicks sadly dispirits the shaggy robustness of the driver. Rolling easily over asphalt with red and green lights at every corner to curb all unholy exuberance is not conducive to individuality.

There was something profoundly human about the old time tobacco-chewin', vulgar and sunny truck driver, with his clattering, lop-sided vehicle and his "Sally" in gold leaf to the fore—something profoundly human that his successor with the beautifully balanced, 10-ton truck and its snarling narrowness will never attain.

ANOTHER SUCKER GAME

A gentleman wrote to me some time ago imparting the glad information that I had been selected along with "other eminent" pen pushers to have my name appear in a new Who's Who in Something. Through a clerical error my amusements neglected to send the ten bucks I was supposed to transmit "to cover the cost of preparation." And now the book is out and I ain't in it.

New York is the Mecca for ambitious lads who wear out their young lives compiling Who's Who's and Blue Books of This, and Red Books of that, and White Books of Something Else Again. All these volumes are laudatory rehashes of the achievements of The Great, The Near Great and the Plain, Unvarnished Sap who doesn't mind parting with ten bucks to rub shoulders with the illustrious, even if it's only on a Sucker List.

SLUMP

Speaking of celebrities: Old Poulney Bigelow, the man with the beard like the Kaiser's, who put over some time ago to Dorn to apologize to Wilhelm for all the cold, unfelting remarks he'd made about Willie during the war—Old P. Bigelow is being hurried by autograph hunters. They figure that an American who'd apologize to the Kaiser is a man with a signature worth having.

But Old P. Bigelow's signature, on appraisal, won't be found to be worth much. Greatness got an awful slap in the nose in the days that succeeded the signing of the Treaty of Versailles. Values are being rearranged. Some time ago they had a sale of authentic signatures of American authors. Following are a few quotations:

Gertie Atherton, $150: Ham Garland, $1: Bliss Perry 50 cents: Hank Van Dyke, four bits: Laura Jean Libby, a buck and a half.

The slump in the waste paper market is still on.

CHAMELEON TOWN

One Monday evening The Duchess entered an ornate nut shop in midtown to purchase twenty-five cents worth of pecan nuts of which she is passionately fond.

Having crunched those up, the next night she thought she'd purchase some more. But the shop was gone. In twenty-four hours it had been converted into a papier-mache grotto where a poor, oppressed foreigner in a skull cap was dispensing pineapple juice.

In New York today, any place that remains "put" for more than a week becomes a landmark.

FLAGPOLE SITTING CRAZE FOR CHICAGO

(International News Service) CHICAGO, July 29—"When my son grows up," stated one mother to another in a conversation overheard here recently, "he doesn't want to be president of the country. He wants to be champion flagpole sitter. Can you imagine?"

This city is fraught with would-be champion flagpole squatters today. Wherever you go you will notice young fellows atop trees in an effort to set some sort of endurance record. Just as Bobby Jones fired the public's medulla with the golf bug, so has "Shipwreck" Kelly and "Dangling" D'Agostino inspired the youths here to greater deeds on high. At least the ambitious chaps are setting out by "sitting on top of the World."

A GREEK SKYSCRAPER

Athens is to have a skyscraper—sixteen stories high. That wouldn't scrape the sky in America; perhaps it will in Greece. Since the great Greek Pericles lived, 300 years before Christ, Athens has changed much. Then, art, literature, beauty occupied a larger place in the minds of leaders than it does today. One asks: has Greece changed for the better? To know the answer would be to know whether today's civilization is better than yesterday's. One thing we can be sure of—civilization does not rest on tall buildings.

DEEDS—WITHOUT NOISE

William Wilson Cook gave the University of Michigan about $10,000,000 before he died. After his death it was found he had left the same school $12,000,000 more. Cook, having been graduated in 1882, never went back to see the college or his old friends. Even when the magnificent Lawyers' club, which he gave, was dedicated he didn't return. His aloofness was strange. One wonders why he didn't go back and take a bow or sit on the stage at commencement time and tune in on the applause. Most of us, talking much about our love and loyalty to this institution or that give little. We hear much about deeds without words but see little. Here is a strange, an amazing example.

RUN TO THE "COP"

New York policemen and kids go on a big picnic together. "These expeditions are good things," says the police commissioner. "They teach the kids to come to the cops instead of running away from them." The policeman is the boys' friend, if the boys are on the square.

THE REALITIES

College girls are studying the realities of social work in New York this summer. They have been reading about social service in books during the college year. They have the theory. Now they will get a chance at practice. Too bad more of us can't have contact with life as it is instead of getting so many of our opinions from books. Too bad so many preachers tell us about life, from the pulpit, without being sure what life is like.

HOW TO GOVERN

Students in the University of Michigan will organize a model government based on the form of the federal government of the United States. They may learn how wideawake voters may protect themselves against politicians who are nothing but politicians. Says Donald Fuller, who thought up the plan:

"Socially minded citizens can control government if they select suitable candidates. With an electorate looking to a group of scientists, social workers, and experts in various fields for information and sound advice, democracy will pass from the theoretical stage to one of approximate reality."

OFFICERS RETURN

Four members of the New Castle Police Department began their two-week vacation Monday. Four others have returned from vacations. Detective John Young and Officers C. C. Lockard, Cecil Suber and McCornaby started their leave, while Officers U. G. Harper, James Hazen, Floyd Hammill and Henry Dysart returned.

Finder Returns Bag; Keeps Money

ROCHESTER, Pa., July 29—Mrs. Charles Moehre, Reno street, lost a handbag containing money and papers. Later she found a parcel in the front yard of her home. It was the lost handbag with a penciled note which read:

"Mrs. Moehre, here is your handbag, thank you for the $8.50 I found it in the road on Ohio street."
